THE MEAT (LICENSING OF EXPORT) (IRELAND) ORDER, 1918,

DATED THE 29th MAY, 1918.

MADE BY THE FOOD CONTROLLER UNDER THE DEFENCE OF THE REALM REGULATIONS.

The above-named Order applies to Meat (including sausages and edible offal) of cattle (including calves), sheep, lambs, or goats, but not to potted or preserved meat, or to the meat or offal of swine; and the effect of the Order, so far as it immediately concerns the exporter, is that

(1) No meat to which the Order applies may be sent, taken, consigned, or shipped from Ireland after 17th June, except under the authority, and subject to the conditions, of a Permit granted by an officer of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland in respect of such meat;

(2) No person may sell such meat by wholesale for delivery outside of Ireland (a) after 17th June, unless he has made application to the Department for a Licence enabling him to do so; (b) after 15th July, unless the Licence thus applied for has been granted; and

(3) No such meat may be sent, taken, consigned, or shipped from Ireland to a person other than a person authorised by the Food Controller to take delivery of it.

The Order further provides that every application for the Licence referred to at (2) must be made on a Form prescribed by the Department, and, therefore, as after 17th instant, no person may obtain a Permit to export meat without having previously sent this Form duly completed to the Department, all persons who are at present engaged in the business of exporting dead meat should at once communicate with the Department, with a view to their receiving, and returning, the Form in time.

"CALL TO UNIONISTS"

The Lord Lieutenant has recently called upon all loyal subjects of His Majesty in Ireland to aid in crushing the treasonable conspiracy with Germany in which certain of His Majesty's subjects in Ireland have become involved.

The supporters of the "Call to Unionists" have from the first pointed to the symptoms of this grave peril, and emphasised the dangers, from the Imperial standpoint, which would attend the establishment of Home Rule.

It is now, more than ever, the duty of all Unionists to speak out. The opportunity is afforded to them by supporting the "Call to Unionists."

Thousands have already done so. Send your name, without delay, to
THE HON. SECRETARY,
SOUTHERN UNIONIST COMMITTEE,
36 MOLESWORTH STREET, DUBLIN.
Copies of the "Call" and signature forms, can be obtained at that address.

MONDAY, JUNE 10, 1918.

The Southern Unionists.

On Friday last the General Council of the Irish Unionist Alliance elected twenty members of the Executive Committee for the coming year. Hitherto all the attendants at such meetings have observed the strict and honourable convention by which the public received only such reports as the Executive Committee issued officially to the Press. This convention was broken for the first time a few weeks ago when a partial and inaccurate report of a meeting was communicated to a Dublin newspaper. Lord Barrymore, the chairman of that meeting, protested in our columns against the breach of privacy. We are entitled to say now that at last Friday's meeting Viscount Midleton, who presided, renewed Lord Barrymore's protest, and expressed a strong hope that the privacy of Friday's proceedings would be respected by all who took part in them. Nevertheless, an unofficial report was communicated promptly to certain Unionist and Nationalist newspapers. It was not published in the Irish Times, which is content to wait for the official report. We regret, and we believe that most of our readers will regret, these violations of decencies which have been a valued part of the traditions of Irish Unionism. In such matters Irish Unionism has always set a good example to other political parties in the country, and we think that the maintenance of a high standard in the conduct of Unionist affairs was never more necessary than at the present time. We hope that the new Council (one half of which has yet to be co-opted) will take early measures to repudiate an innovation which, if not quickly discouraged, cannot fail to have very mischievous results. The issue of last Friday's election (we assume the accuracy of the unofficial report) was an emphatic victory for the promoters of the "Call to Unionists." These gentlemen have conducted a vigorous campaign against the action of the Alliance's delegates to the Irish Convention, and the election was the first real trial of strength between the two parties. Supporters of the "Call to Unionists" secured sixteen of the twenty vacancies on the Council.

The result is a very clear indication that recent events have compelled even the most moderate of Southern Unionists to reconsider their attitude to a Home Rule settlement. It must be remembered, of course, that the Convention delegates made no attempt to defend their action against the promoters of the "Call." They felt—we think rightly—that the supreme crisis of the war was no time for political controversy. Furthermore, the majority of Southern Unionists will not accept this election as a personal vote of censure on the Convention delegates, and, if it was intended as such, will refuse to endorse it. The delegates were instructed to safeguard the interests of Southern Unionism at a time when settlement seemed to be not only possible, but inevitable; and they fulfilled their task with conspicuous ability. Lord Midleton and his colleagues deserve, and, whatever may happen, will continue to receive, the gratitude of thoughtful Irishmen of all parties and of the whole Empire. Within the last few weeks, however, the whole situation has suffered a radical and rapid change for the worse. Three months ago a large number of moderate Nationalists were anxious for a reasonable settlement; that party no longer asserts itself in public affairs. Three months ago the Nationalist Party was a constitutional party; to-day it has been absorbed, for all practical purposes, in the movement which has declared open war on England. The basis of the Irish Convention was national recognition of the supreme authority of the Imperial Parliament. Within the last few weeks the most powerful force in Ireland—the Roman Catholic Hierarchy—has defied that authority on an essential point of principle, and has rallied the whole of Nationalist Ireland to its support. These hammer-blows, following one another in swift succession, have killed every hope that moderate Irishmen founded on the work of the Irish Convention. They have compelled Southern Unionists to fall back with one accord on their last line of defence.

We are told that the Government's Home Rule Bill is now ready, and will be introduced at an early date. From what single party in Ireland does it expect to find a moment's support? The Unionists of Ulster have always resisted Home Rule; after the events of the last few weeks they will resist it with increased fervour and conviction. The Bill is said to be a federal bill; both Nationalist parties will reject it with scorn. Sinn Fein, now the largest party in Ireland, will accept nothing less than absolute independence. The Nationalist Party is committed to the fullest measure of Dominion Home Rule. Mr. William O'Brien has just suggested an agreement between the party and Sinn Fein (to be ratified by Mr. Griffith's unopposed return for East Cavan) on the ground that their policies are substantially identical—"Dominion Independence . . . differs little except in name from Sovereign Independence." It is almost certain, therefore, that the Nationalists will not accept what the Government is about to offer, and that the Government dare not offer the least with which the Nationalists will be content. It dare not offer virtual independence to a country which at this moment is sodden with disaffection, and, by its refusal to do its duty in the war, is doing its best to prevent the Allies from winning the war. Moderate Unionists who supported settlement so long as it seemed to be possible are compelled to recognise to-day that the time is utterly unsuitable for constitutional changes, and that the only palliative for Ireland's ills—we shall not call it a cure—is just and firm government. To that conclusion they have been driven by the folly of the Nationalist Party, the disloyalty of Sinn Fein, and the intolerable claims of the Roman Catholic Church. The Mansion House Conference has undone all the work of the Irish Convention, and the natural and definite change in the policy of the Irish Unionist Alliance is the latest triumph of Mr. Dillon's statesmanship. There remains for him now only the undertaker's task of driving the last nail into the coffin of Home Rule by rejecting the Empire's final appeal to Ireland for voluntary service in the war.

The Imperial Conference.

The Imperial Conference which is to be opened in London this week will be the most notable in our history, if only because of the fact that, on specific questions, the representatives will sit with, and be of, the War Cabinet. The delegates have already arrived in London. Once more Sir Robert Borden will represent Canada, but this time as the head of a Coalition Government, and with him will be three of his Ministers—the Honourable N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, who was for many years Liberal leader of the Opposition in the Province of Ontario; the Hon. A. Meighen, Minister of the Interior, and the Hon. J. Calder, Minister of Immigration. Last year the Australian Government was unable to be represented, but on this occasion Mr. Hughes and Mr. Cook, the Minister of the Navy, will attend. Mr. Hughes was a comparatively unknown man two years ago, when he first visited the Motherland, but his remarkable gifts soon brought him into prominence. It was largely due to his efforts that the Allied Economic Conference which arrived at such important and far-reaching decisions was held at Paris. New Zealand will have the same representatives as last year—the Right Hon. F. W. Massey, Prime Minister—who, it is interesting to note, is an Irishman, hailing from Limavady, County Londonderry—and Sir Joseph Ward. General Smuts will again be the chief delegate from South Africa. The Newfoundland representative will be the Right Hon. F. W. Lloyd. An interesting innovation is the inclusion of Sir Styendra P. Sinha and the Maharaja of Patiala as the representatives of India. They will be associated with the Secretary of State. Their inclusion is a just recognition of the whole-hearted enthusiasm with which the peoples of the great Dependency have rallied to the call of Empire. The Conference will deal with many questions of vital importance. Chief amongst these is the future of the conquered German Colonies. In his speech on Friday the Prime Minister compared German militarism with a plague that must be stamped out, and added: "The world cannot allow it to come again to darken the lives of millions." It is well known that Germany treated the natives in her colonies with deliberate cruelty. Since they were emancipated by South African, Australian, and New Zealand troops at heavy cost, they have known the blessings of freedom and experienced the beneficence of British rule. To permit their return to bondage would be an inconceivable hardship. General Smuts has already declared that in no circumstances would he consent to the surrender of these territories, and we believe that Mr. Hughes and Mr. Massey will be equally resolute on the point. The latter, it is said, will make important proposals regarding the utilisation of the German Colonies in the Pacific for naval and military purposes. Preferential treatment within the Empire, the treatment of the enemy trader after the war, and the conservation of Imperial resources for the Empire are three other great questions on which decisions will have to be taken. Those decisions will have a potent influence on the future of the Empire and of the world.

Munition Accounts.

The report of the Comptroller and Auditor-General on the accounts of the munition and aircraft factories is a grave reflection on the business capacity of the high officials of the Ministry of Munitions. It is generally admitted that, in a case of great national emergency where quickness of expansion and production is the chief end in view, it would be foolish to restrict expenditure too severely. There is, however, a vast difference between a generous allotment of money and gross inefficiency in book-keeping and slackness of control. The auditor reports further extraordinary deficiencies in the accounts. In one case, after the accounts had been certified by a firm of accountants, an error to the extent of three millions was discovered. In another case stores records were found to be so untrustworthy that the auditors had to abandon the task of verification. In a third case out of a sum of thirty-eight millions for materials supplied by the Ministry nearly sixteen millions represented materials for which no invoices were received. The Auditor-General blames both the Headquarters Staff and the factory accountants. The Ministry of Munitions has done remarkable work in keeping our Armies supplied with guns and shells, but it is high time that the department was organised on sound business lines. The Auditor-General states that "a considerable improvement has taken place during the year . . . , and that more reliable results may be looked for in the future." It is greatly to be hoped that these anticipations will be realised.

DEPARTURE OF THE LORD LIEUTENANT.

His Excellency Field Marshal Viscount French, K.P., left Kingstown on Saturday night, en route for London.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR OF IRELAND.

At a meeting of the Privy Council held on Saturday, the Right Hon. James Henry Mussen Campbell, Bart., was sworn as Lord Chancellor of Ireland. He will sit in court to-day.

THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

A meeting of the Privy Council was held on Saturday in the Council Chamber, Dublin Castle. There were present—Field-Marshal His Excellency Viscount French, the Lord Chancellor (Sir James Henry Mussen Campbell, Bart.), the Chief Secretary, Mr. Justice Gibson, Mr. Justice Kenny, Sir Thomas Wallace Russell, Bart.; Mr. Justice Wylie, Mr. Michael Francis Cox, the Recorder of Dublin, Mr. Justice Dodd, and Lord Justice Molony.

THE GOVERNORSHIP OF JAFFA.

Lieutenant-Colonel W. D. Kenny, Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, attached Egyptian Army, and recently Military Governor of Gaza, has been appointed Military Governor of Jaffa (Joppa). This distinguished officer is a son of Mr. Justice Kenny.

BREVET LIEUTENANT-COLONEL B. B. CROZIER, C.M.G.

Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel Baptist Barton Crozier, C.M.G., D.S.O., R.A., whose name appeared in our issue of Saturday amongst those whom the King has appointed to be Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George for services rendered in connection with military operations in Italy, is a son of the Primate.

IRISH ARMY WORKER HONOURED.

Miss Jeannie Fitzpatrick, who is at present serving with the Queen Mary Army Auxiliary Corps at Belfast, where she ranks as quartermaster-sergeant in the hostel, has been decorated by the King with the Royal Red Cross for conspicuous heroism during the Sinn Fein rising of 1916. Miss Fitzpatrick and her sister, Miss Nora Fitzpatrick, a V.A.D. nurse (who has been similarly honoured) resided in Dublin in the heart of the disturbed area, and for two weeks they laboured with unwavering assiduity on behalf of the wounded, and attended as many as 120 Sinn Fein wounded prisoners in Richmond Barracks. Miss Jeannie Fitzpatrick came to Belfast at the opening of the new hostel on January 20th of the present year.

ORDER OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Amongst the names of Irish interest included in the list of officers appointed to the Order of the British Empire which appears in our issue to-day are the following:—

Mr. David Barry, General Manager of the British and Irish Steam Packet Company, Ltd.

Mr. James Scott Gordon, Deputy Assistant Secretary, and Chief Inspector in the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland.

Mrs. Dorothy Eleanor Augusta Hignett, who has rendered valuable services in connection with the war. Trained as a nurse for three months on the outbreak of the war, Mrs. Hignett was also Canteen Organiser at Abbey Wood, Woolwich, and Hon. Organiser of Canteens for National Shell Factories for the South of Ireland. She has been Deputy President of the Irish War Hospital Supply Depôt since 1914, and was appointed Organiser, National Waste Paper Depôt in Ireland.

Mr. James Macartney has taken an active interest in flax production in Ireland. He is Chairman of the Aircraft Fabric Committee, and a member of the Irish Sub-Committee of the Flax Control Board.

CINDERELLA AT THE THEATRE ROYAL.

It is rather a pity that such a beautiful spectacle as that of "Our Little Cinderella," produced by the pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Leggett Byrne, should have been limited to two performances. The time and labour spent in its preparation must have been very great, and the result was extremely pleasing and gratifying to all who had the privilege of being present. At the second matinée on Saturday the Theatre Royal presented a unique spectacle. The stage was occupied by beautifully dressed and perfectly trained pupils, while every part of the auditorium was filled with delighted children of all ages. The first portion of the programme was made up of various styles of dance, the whole of the second part being devoted to a charming revision of the favourite "Cinderella." The original story was more closely adhered to than is usual in the modern so-called pantomime, so that the stage pictures appealed directly to all the little people in the audience, and their childish delight at the good fortune of the heroine was demonstrated again and again. Beatrice Leggett Byrne was the Cinderella, and her dance when she put on the magic slippers was one of the most graceful in the pantomime. She had good support in Kathleen Armstrong as the Fairy Godmother. The dance of the fireside fairies, led by Colette Garland, was admirably done. The performance of one of them, a tiny child of tender years, was followed with great interest, and evoked general and cordial applause. The forest fairies, another group of beautiful children, were led by Audrey Williams, and they, too, displayed remarkable efficiency and grace of style. Leonore Harper was the Terpsichore, and in the course of her several appearances she won hearty applause for the perfection and grace of her dancing. The ballroom in the palace was a pretty scene, and here the audience were treated to a very interesting display of dancing. The gavotte was gone through by eight couples. This was followed by a skilfully done scarf dance by Phyllis Alley, Molly Kennedy, Finola Riordan, and Dorothy Franklin. An Indian dance was given in spirited style by Joy Browne, and a folly dance by a clever little girl, Una Roger Greene. Phyllis, Edna, and Hazel Smith appeared in a smartly done skipping dance, and the graceful minuet was entrusted to Beatrice Leggett Byrne and Norman Judd. The valse Chopin was an encore "turn," owing to the charming manner in which Rosie Zeider went through the various movements. Another admirable ballroom item was the Spanish dance given by Rex Tandy and Jennie Gibson. There were many other notable performers, the whole pantomime being extremely creditable to all concerned. A special word of praise is due to the dressing of the parts, this duty having been discharged with remarkably good taste and sound judgment.

LAND FOR IRISH SOLDIERS.

The Trim Rural District Council on Saturday passed a resolution protesting against the arrest and deporting of the Irish political prisoners; also protesting against the offer of land to recruits, "considering, as we do, that such is a gross insult to the Irish people and the Irish nation so long as the Irish nation's right to Colonial Home Rule is with-held in defiance of the principle of self-determination for which the Allies are fighting."

Leicester's "War Weapons Week" realised £1,086,977.

An Order, which comes into force to-day, extends the provisions of the Gooseberries (Sales) (England and Wales) Order to the whole of the United Kingdom.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The Sunday papers were full this morning of speculations as to where the next German blow would fall. It was generally expected that it would be delayed for some days in order that the enemy might get up his heavy guns and improve his communications. But, true to the sound theory that delay is more to the advantage of the defence than of the attack, Ludendorff has struck again within less than a week of the dying away of his previous attack. It is possible also that his movement has been hastened by the consciousness that the moral of his troops was beginning to suffer under the series of successful operations by which the French, Americans, and British were eating into his new line.

Montdidier is some twenty miles south-east of Amiens—a fact that has led one hasty commentator to conclude that the present attack is "a thrust for Amiens." It would be equally, if not more, accurate to say that it is a thrust for Paris. The enemy's immediate object is probably to get round the forest of Compiègne, which constitutes a formidable obstacle to direct attack, and, if he can accomplish that, then to proceed to straighten out the salient between Montdidier and Château Thierry. That done, he would be in a very much better position to attack either Amiens or Paris.

The Parliamentary programme in the Commons this week is not particularly exciting. The Education Bill, whose passage, thanks to Mr. Fisher's judicious concessions regarding the continuation schools, is now thought to be assured, will occupy Monday and Tuesday. Wednesday is to be devoted to the Post Office Vote, and Thursday to the Report of the Finance Bill. So far as Ireland is concerned, the most interesting item will be the statement which Mr. Bonar Law has promised to make on Tuesday regarding the grant of land to Irish soldiers. Colonel McCalmont has put down a further question on the subject—namely, whether the claims of those Irish soldiers who enlisted early in the war will be first dealt with. It is expected that the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in his reply, will outline the scheme which the Government are considering for the benefit of all soldiers, British as well as Irish.

The experiment begun on a very small scale in 1916 by the Small Holdings (Colonies) Act has been successful, and the 8,000 acres originally sanctioned have been increased to 80,000 acres this session. It is hoped eventually to devote at least a million acres to this purpose. Some of the land will be acquired from large landowners, who are expected to follow the patriotic example of the Duke of Sutherland, while a considerable amount is now being reclaimed from the sea as the result of the labour of German prisoners of war—a happy example of poetical justice.

If the Nationalists return to Westminster this week, I fancy that they will notice a subtle change in the atmosphere of the place. Thanks to the unfortunate collaboration in the anti-conscription campaign of Nationalists with Sinn Feiners, the cause of Home Rule has received a great set-back. Even so stout a supporter of it as the Daily News has been obliged to admit through its representative in Dublin that the election of a Home Rule Parliament in Ireland now is virtually impossible from the point of view of British statesmanship; while Mr. Garvin, another inveterate Home Ruler, though of an Imperialist type, declares that "there is no longer any faintest chance of improving any aspect of the Irish question except in strict connection with a scheme of Federal devolution for all the four nations of 'the United Kingdom'—and that will take time."

On Wednesday next Lord Londonderry, in the House of Lords, intends to call attention to recent events in Ireland. On the following Wednesday Lord Midleton will call attention to the report of the War Cabinet for 1917 and to the desirability of limiting the duties of the War Cabinet to matters immediately relating to the conduct of the war, and of re-establishing ordinary Cabinet government for all other purposes.

When the Chancellor of the Exchequer moves the new Vote of Credit next week it will probably be for a larger sum than any yet asked for in one vote. It is suggested that the sum may be seven hundred and fifty millions, or one hundred millions more than the last vote. This points to a Parliamentary recess of several weeks at the end of the summer.

Suggestions have often been made that some of the ships sunk by German submarines may be raised after the war and set to work again when shipping will be so much in demand. It seems that the authorities have not wasted time in this matter, for ships are already being raised. They are patched up while under water and then refloated. One firm has refloated five large vessels this year—all sunk by submarines. Large quantities of stores have also been saved from sunken ships by the work of divers.

GALE IN DUBLIN.

After an ideal June day of brilliant sunshine on Saturday, the sky became overcast, and rain began to fall shortly after midnight. There was a heavy and continuous downpour as the morning advanced, while the wind increased to the velocity of a gale. From the violence of the wind during the afternoon hours it is quite evident that very low pressures prevailed to the northward. The heavy rainfall continued almost without intermission from midnight on Saturday until a late hour yesterday evening. The principal feature of the weather was the unseasonable severity of the westerly gale during the afternoon hours, which caused considerable damage to trees in their full June foliage. The roads of the suburbs were covered with fallen leaves and branches, and in the North Circular road and along the quays a number of the smaller trees were blown down. At times the wind attained a velocity of from 45 to 55 miles per hour—a very unusual occurrence at this season of the year. After 6.0 p.m. the wind veered from W.N.W. to N.W., and decreased in violence. The rain ceased at nightfall, but the sky continued overcast and threatening. No serious damage or delay to shipping was reported. A number of boardings around the destroyed buildings in Sackville street were blown down. At 2.50 p.m. yesterday an old man named Thomas Sheridan, aged 75 years, of 111 Seville place, was knocked down by the wind in Sackville street. He was conveyed in the Fire Brigade ambulance to Jervis street Hospital, where he was detained, suffering from severe injuries to the right hip.

On the coast the weather broke badly in the early hours of Sunday morning. A westerly wind, accompanied by rain, which veered to the north-west and grew to a gale, made a most unpleasant change from the glorious sunshine of the past week. The wind was cold, and in the towns blew heavy rain in fierce blasts along the streets. Fruit trees suffered badly. Here and there old trees were blown down. A tree blown down at Monkstown interfered with the tram traffic for a time. The wind was off shore, and no damage was reported on the coast line. The mail boat came in an hour late at evening and brought very few passengers.

THE KING PRESENTS WAR HONOURS.

The King decorated 250 war heroes on the Queen's Parade, Aldershot, on Saturday, in the presence of an enormous crowd of spectators, who cordially greeted the Royal party, which included the Queen, Princess Mary, and the Duke of Connaught. Among the recipients of honours were Major-General Cecil Lowther and Major-General Harold Tagart, who were created Knights Commanders of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. Captain Alfred Toye, of the Middlesex Regiment, received the Victoria Cross. There were a number of admissions to the Distinguished Service Order and many Military Crosses, Military Medals, and other decorations were conferred.

BRAY AND THE NEW RAILWAY ARRANGEMENTS.

Our Belfast Correspondent telegraphs:—Those who have arranged to spend their holidays at Bray will be pleased to learn that the Railway Executive have decided to reckon distances of 12 miles and 39 chains as 12 miles, and distances of 12 miles and 40 chains as 13 miles. In addition to other places, this will bring Bray under the 12 mile limit, and will enable subscribers to obtain tickets for a month or longer.

THE VICTORIAN AGE.

MR. ASQUITH'S ROMANES LECTURE.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Asquith delivered the Romanes Lecture in the Sheldonian Theatre, Oxford. There was an audience of between three and four thousand persons. A truly great oration, which lasted an hour, was listened to with a sustained interest which never for a moment flagged.

Earl Curzon, Chancellor of the University, attended, and, in a few introductory words, spoke of the suspension of the lecture for the last two years, and of Mr. Asquith's predecessors, amongst them Mr. Balfour. His Lordship concluded—"I would like to make one thoroughly irrelevant remark, and that is that among the aspersions of the past Victorian age there is none which this University, and I believe every section of the public, regards with so much abhorrence and disgust as the gross and gratuitous defamation of the character of our public men."

These words roused the audience to a high pitch, and the cheering which greeted Lord Curzon's utterance lacked nothing in volume and heartiness.

Mr. Asquith, who wore his doctor's robes, chose as his subject "Some Aspects of the Victorian Age." Beginning with a comment on the curious fact that in English history the only Sovereigns who had given their name to an epoch had been Queens Elizabeth, Anne, and Victoria. He prophesied that for generations to come historians would speak of the Victorian age. They would use the term "age" in the sense of a particular and definite phase in the development of the nation. It was only in a limited sense that he could speak on the subject chosen, because the terms of the trust under which the Romanes lecture was delivered excluded by implication politics and theology, each of which absorbed a great part of the energies of the Victorians. Within the area so circumscribed the most obvious thing to arrest the attention in any survey of the Victorian age was the almost paradoxical incongruity between what might be aptly termed its outward and its inward life. Outwardly the middle class of the time moved in uninspiring surroundings. Within the growing pains of democracy were hardly beginning to be felt. Though not so insular in their habits of mind and feeling as sometimes represented, we met from time to time genuine sympathy with what one of their great orators had once described as nationalities "rightly struggling to be free." They were no knights errant, but concentrated their energy on the attainment of the commercial and financial probity of the world. It took a long time to make them realise that they might be paying too high a price in capturing the markets of the world under a system of industry which crippled and stunted the women and children of the country.

EMINENT VICTORIANS.

He called particular attention to a recently published volume of Mr. L. Strachey under the modest title of "Eminent Victorians." It described Cardinal Manning, Florence Nightingale, Dr. Arnold, and General Gordon. None of the four could be said to have contributed anything to the permanent improvement of the literature, art, or science of their time, but each of them was in their day a prominent and potent personality. There was less danger of their being forgotten now that their lives were being recorded for English readers of the future, but not in the blind spirit of hero worship, by Mr. Strachey's subtle and suggestive art. Mr. Asquith rapidly passed under review a whole line of worthies—Carlyle, Macaulay, Disraeli, John Stuart Mill, Spencer, Matthew Arnold, Meredith, Charles Darwin, Gladstone, and Tennyson.

He paused to emphasise that in 1809 America witnessed the birth of two of the greatest men—one in the sphere of action, the other in the sphere of imagination—that that Continent had produced—Abraham Lincoln and Edgar Allan Poe. He had included Gladstone and Disraeli in his list of worthies, not because, but in spite, of their being politicians. (Laughter.) After touching on the two immortal works, "The Pickwick Papers" of Dickens and "The French Revolution" of Carlyle, Mr. Asquith alluded to Sir E. Clarke—that ornament of the forensic and political world—and his recent "Life," prefacing a reference to Sir Edward's list of books by saying that that eminent lawyer did not enjoy the advantages, or what one in these days ought, perhaps, to say suffer from, the drawbacks of a public school and University education. (Laughter.)

Speaking of Browning and Meredith as passing from the worship of a coterie into the recognised Pantheon, the lecturer aroused his audience to merriment by an allusion to the case of an editor, who had allowed a contributor to his columns to say that "The Amazing Marriage" was not devoid of interest, but what a pity it was Meredith could not manage to write like other people. It was novelists rather than poets who had left the deepest impression upon the popular imagination. The Victorians used to discuss who were the greatest writers of their time, but comparisons of that kind, if not futile, were at least unprofitable. Men and women of the greatest genius could not be called and classified like plants or politicians. (Laughter.) The note of revolt was not characteristic of the Victorian age, but the Victorians were not allowed to wax fat, and the prophetic office had rarely been more fully exercised than it was by Carlyle and Ruskin, and Matthew Arnold showed intellectual impatience of the sterility and futility of contemporary life. To a catena of prophetic literature Mr. Asquith added the work, "On Compromise," by Lord Morley, a scathing indictment of some Victorian insincerities.

Mr. Asquith passed on to the rise and fall of the Tractarian Movement, the Broad Church, and the relative positions of Robertson and Spurgeon. All these topics, he said, would have to be placed by the historian in their due and proper perspective, and the several speculative tendencies would have their place in the history of thought. A reference to Herbert Spencer's "Synthetic Philosophy" brought the lecturer to the open assault at Oxford on the fashionable cult of Mill. Jowett, Mark Pattison, Froude, and Freeman next came under contribution, Mr. Asquith observing that Froude and Freeman became catchwords in the dispute whether it was possible for a great historian to be accurate and readable. (Laughter.)

ART AND SCIENCE.

He described the art of the Victorians as difficult and much controverted. In the domain of science Faraday and Kelvin were among those who transformed the face of the world and the habits of mankind. Speaking of Darwin and the "Origin of Species," he pointed out that there was nothing new in the theory of evolution. He testified to the spirit animating Darwin and Wallace in their contemporaneous investigations, but the lecturer would not touch on even the fringe of the controversy as it presented itself to biologists. He was not qualified to enter the court of the outer temple of science. He greatly amused his hearers by a description of the historic scene between Bishop Samuel Wilberforce and Professor Huxley, "who gave the bishop a nasty fall," and then he went on to give another instance of controversial method leading up to Disraeli's famous pronouncement, "I am on the side of the angels." In a fine passage, Mr. Asquith declared that man's physical pedigree, whatever it be, must be regarded as of little moment. Whether his origin was by special creation or by development from lower forms of organic life, somewhere and somehow, he was united with something that was to be found nowhere else in power of initiative, in self-determination, in pursuing and achieving ideals, and in the capacity for commercial life. The last word here was not with philosophers or even with men of science, but the poet, who had the gift of vision. "What a piece of work is a man! How noble in reason! How infinite in faculty! In form and moving how express and admirable! In action how like an angel! In apprehension, how like a god! The beauty of the world! The paragon of animals." He only hoped that fifty years hence in that chair his successor would be able to say that the contribution of the post-Victorians was comparable to that of the Victorians in the things that permanently enrich and exalt mankind. (Cheers.)

The ceremony was then formally closed with the Chancellor's procession from the theatre.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

Writing at a late hour last night, our London Correspondent says:—I understand the Cabinet Committee, of which Mr. Walter Long is Chairman, has now practically completed its draft of the Irish Home Rule Bill, and that it is ready to go before the War Cabinet as a whole for final approval. This, it is expected, will take place within the next few days. As anticipated, the bill is so drafted that it will fit in with a wider scheme of Federal Home Rule.

NEW STAR DISCOVERED.

A new star of the first magnitude was discovered at Thornton Heath, Surrey, on June 8th at 10.45 p.m., Greenwich time, by M. Felix de Roy, Secretary of the Astronomical Society of Antwerp. It is situated in the constellation Aquila, on the northern edge of the southern branch of the Milky Way. No new star of such brightness, easily visible to the naked eye, has been observed since 1901, when Anderson discovered Nova Persei. Mr. Steavenson also observed this star in South London at 10.30 p.m., Greenwich mean time, and Mr. Harold Thomson at Newcastle a little later. Miss Grace Cook observed it at Stowmarket, and Mr. Denning at Bristol.

The facts regarding the discovery have been fully verified at the Royal Observatory. The star was found to be of the magnitude of 0.9, and to show a stellar image with the largest telescope. The appearance of this star is of the greatest interest to astronomers. The star is possibly at a very great distance away. If it were as near as the sun it would be thousands of times as bright as viewed from the earth. The sudden appearance of new stars of such brilliancy is extremely remarkable, and is not fully understood by astronomers.

FRENCH HONOUR FOR AN ENGLISH NURSE.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent with the French Army, France, telegraphing on June 8th, says:—The French War Cross has been awarded to an English volunteer nurse, Miss C. G. Brass, who has been working since the beginning of the war for the French wounded with Mrs. Symons' Anglo-French Ambulance, often under the most dangerous and trying conditions. The Cross is accompanied by the following citation in the Army Order:—"Miss Brass is a nurse of remarkable character, who unites fine moral qualities with excellent professional knowledge. Indefatigable, devoted to the wounded under her care, she is a valuable assistant to the surgeon in the operating room. Miss Brass particularly distinguished herself in the course of the bombardment of June, July, and October, 1917, and still more particularly in the bombardment of March, 1918, in which the hospital premises were directly attacked and during which her calm demeanour and good humour rendered the greatest assistance in maintaining calm among the wounded."

THE MILITARY CROSS.

Major R. W. Kinghan, who has been awarded the Military Cross, was wounded last March at Amiens. He is the second son of the late Rev. P. Kinghan, Rector of Swinford, Co. Mayo, and of Mrs. Kinghan, Percy place, Dublin.

Captain Thomas J. M. Murray, A.S.C., son of Mr. Patrick Murray, Eglinton street, Galway, has been awarded the Military Cross.

The King has been pleased to approve of the appointment of the Right Rev. J. E. C. Welldon, D.D., Dean of Manchester, to be Dean of Durham.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE SPIRIT OF FRANCE.

In a leading article to-day The Times writes:—In the eyes of the Allies, as in those of the enemy, M. Clemenceau has become the incarnation of the immortal spirit of France. The preparatory bombardment for a fresh German offensive began on Friday night, and next day found the indefatigable old statesman on one of the most active sectors of the front. He brought back, it is said, an excellent impression. Unquestionably his visit must have made an excellent impression on the troops. The unslacked fire and the tameless energy of this veteran of seventy-seven are an example to us all. He has the deepest sense of the danger which threatens France. His recent speech shows that. He has innumerable decisions to give which may be of vital consequence. The whole burden of government is on his shoulders, with the Germans but forty miles from Paris. He has many enemies. Those who cannot pardon the bygone strokes of the fierce old "tiger," rival politicians whose personal ambitions darken their sense of the public good, the Tartuffes of patriotism, who, in their own financial interests, would sell France for a mess of pottage and sign a "peace by understanding," the open and the secret disciples of Bolshevism and of anarchy—all these, ably supported by German agents, are eager for his overthrow. He knows it well, but, strong in the faith in France, which he preaches with burning conviction to her sons and daughters, and strong in the confidence that the nation holds it not less firmly than he, he has but one care and sees but one aim. He marches right on, with his eyes fixed upon the goal. The spirit of France dominates him, the intrepid spirit which has ever rendered her invincible when she was true to herself. The Prime Minister of France in this supreme day of her trial shares the glory of the heroes who have died for her. He, too, "has made French history great."

THE IMPERIAL CABINET.

There is reason to believe that the preliminary meetings of the Imperial War Cabinet will be held this week. In a leading article The Times points out that many and urgent tasks await the Dominion and Indian representatives coming to England to attend the second meeting of the Imperial War Cabinet. It is not for nothing that they have braved the very substantial perils of long voyages in war time and have left their deputies to manage affairs in their own countries. The representatives of Australia and New Zealand, for instance, are charged to impress upon British Ministers the anxiety of their people that Germany should not regain a footing in the Pacific. They are bound to fulfil this duty, and they can speak with the more authority because the peril of German designs in the Pacific is a peril of which they have had personal experience. Canada has interests in the same direction, as we showed the other day. But still more immediate for Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues is the question of the relations of the Dominion to the United States, happily cordial and close as they have never been before, but involving all the more on that account an infinity of intricate problems in co-operation and adjustment, naval and military, financial, industrial, economic. These are all immediate issues with which the Imperial War Cabinet must cope.

A NEW COLONIAL LOAN.

According to a City Note in The Times to-day, the prospect of the issue of a new Colonial Loan in the near future is being discussed in financial circles. The amount of the Loan is likely to be larger than previous emissions of the same kind, and will probably take the form, which is now fashionable, of a comparatively short-dated security. It is a pity that these Loans should have to be raised here at all, for they are apt to divert attention from our War Loans, since they have to be raised on more attractive terms. If the funds cannot be raised locally, there seems to be no reason why the money should not be provided by the Imperial Government direct.

A NEW STAR.

The Astronomer Royal (Sir Frank Dyson) communicates to The Times to-day the discovery of a new star. The star was first observed on Saturday night at Greenwich. It is described as "Nova first magnitude in Aquila." It is pure white, and the image was found to be perfectly stellar. With a small spectroscope the spectrum appeared to be continuous.

SERMON BY THE PRIMATE IN LONDON.

Preaching to a large congregation at Westminster Abbey last night, the Archbishop of Armagh (the Most Rev. J. B. Crozier, D.D.), said that in these days we needed faith as never before in the experience of any one of us. We were confronted, day by day, with the silence of God in the outbreak of Satanic cruelty and lust on the part of our enemies, and once again in the world's history we were face to face with the same conflict of the forces of good and evil, before which 1,900 years ago the rocks were rent and the sun veiled her face. Once again over a world bathed in tears and drenched with blood the cry went up, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken us?" From sea and land, from hospital ship and sinking cruiser, from nursing homes, from murdered children, bleeding prisoners and outraged women the cry went up, "How long, O Lord, how long, dost Thou not judge and avenge our blood?" Whether we thought of the past, the dear ones who had vanished out of sight for a time, the noble army of men and boys, the matron and the maid who had followed afar off in the footsteps of Him who gave His life a ransom for many, or whether we faced the unknown future, as men and women who had set their teeth, please God, to see it through, the fiery taunt confronted us, "Is thy God whom thou servest able to deliver?" Yes; He was able, and we could trust Him if we did our part, because He cared for us. If God be an uninterested spectator of this carnival of Satan, it would be hard, indeed, to have faith, and to believe that He was loving, as well as great. But if it be true to say that the heart of God was rent, because a professing Christian nation, using His Name and blaspheming His Honour had taken its destiny into its own hand and preferred Odin to Christ: if it be true, as he believed with all his heart it was, that the tears Jesus shed over Jerusalem burst forth afresh to-day as He walked along the battlefield or planted His footsteps on the sea, then, indeed, we could believe there was a reason for it all, and that one day God would make it plain.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

A Lloyd's message from Table Bay, dated June 4th, states that the coasting steamer Eros is reported lost with all hands. A lifeboat and one body has been washed up at Lambert's Bay.

An altercation between a soldier and a civilian, in the former's house, at Brighouse, on Saturday, terminated in the civilian sustaining a bayonet wound in the neck, from which he died immediately.

The death occurred at the residence of his daughter, at Dalston, London, on Saturday, of Harry Lynn, who was regarded as the oldest Shakespearean actor in the country. He was 75 years of age, and celebrated his golden wedding four years ago.

The Postmaster-General announces the loss at sea through enemy action of parcels for China, the Dutch East Indies, Hong Kong, North Borneo, Sarawak, Siam, and the Straits Settlements, which were received at the General Post Office, London, for despatch from the 10th to the 16th May last, inclusive.

The election was due to the death of the Centre deputy, Warlo.

The King, the Queen, Princess Mary, and the Duke of Connaught were present yesterday morning at Parade Service at All Saints' Garrison Church, Aldershot. The Service, which was attended by the units of the garrison, was of the customary military character, a military band assisting in the musical portion.

The Queen, who is Commandant of the W.A.A.C.'s, having learned that about a dozen wounded and convalescent members of the Corps were being treated in Endell street Hospital, at once made arrangements for their transfer to Queen Mary's Home for Convalescents at Petersham Lodge. Her Majesty's practical and kindly consideration for the heroic patients' welfare was much appreciated.

NEW ATTACK

ON A 21-MILE FRONT

BETWEEN MONTDIDIER AND THE OISE.

ENEMY'S HEAVY LOSSES.

The enemy resumed the offensive yesterday. The late French official states that after violent artillery preparation the German infantry advanced to the attack on a front of 21¾ miles, between Montdidier and the Oise.

The attack on this part of the line was not unexpected by the Allied Command, and the enemy met with a stout resistance. They suffered very heavy losses. On the wings they failed to make appreciable progress, but in the centre they forced their way to the villages of Ressons-sur-Matz and Marevilles.

The enemy's object is probably to get round the forest of Compiegne, and then to proceed to straighten out the salient between Montdidier and Chateau Thierry. If they could accomplish that it would facilitate an advance towards either Paris or Amiens.

The earlier reports show that the Allied troops carried out a number of minor attacks during Friday night and Saturday, and improved their positions at various points.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

Saturday, 10.4 a.m.

We captured a few prisoners last night in a successful raid in the neighbourhood of Hulloch. Our patrols inflicted casualties on the enemy in the Strazeele sector, and captured a machine gun. Hostile artillery has been active north of Albert and south-east of Arras.

Saturday, 7.39 p.m.

We raided the enemy's trenches last night south of Arras, and inflicted casualties on his garrison. Early this morning French troops carried out a successful minor enterprise east of Dickebusch Lake, and captured 47 prisoners.

Aviation.—In the air a good deal of observation and photographic work was carried out by us. On June 7th bombing was active on both sides. We dropped 23 tons of bombs on railway junctions, aerodromes, and dumps beyond the German lines. Twelve enemy machines were brought down by our airmen, and seven driven down out of control. We lost three machines. On the night of June 7th-8th no flying was possible.

Sunday, 10.35 a.m.

English troops carried out a successful raid last night south of Beaumont-Hamel, and captured 30 prisoners. A few prisoners were captured also by French troops in a successful raid north of Bailleul. Hostile raids were repulsed yesterday evening, and during the night south-east and east of Arras, and in the neighbourhood of Givenchy La Bassée. Hostile artillery activity has been above normal in the southern portion of the front from Villers Bretonneux to Albert, also between Givenchy and Robecq.

Sunday, 7.38 p.m.

There is nothing of special interest to report from the British front.

Aviation.—Low clouds on the British front interfered with work in the air on June 8th. Little photography or observation was possible, but our aeroplanes constantly attacked the enemy behind his lines with machine gun fire. Our squadrons co-operating with the French heavily bombed Nesle and Fresnoy Les Roye. In all nine tons of bombs were dropped during the day. During the following night two tons of bombs were dropped on the Don Railway Station and Salome dump (east of La Bassée).

In the course of the twenty-four hours four hostile machines were brought down by us and two others driven down out of control. None of our machines is missing.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Saturday.

On the front to the south of the Aisne there was rather great artillery activity, notably in the region of Faverolles. To the south-east of Ambleny we improved our positions during the night.

To the south of the Ourcq our troops, continuing their pressure, made fresh progress. We carried our lines as far as the locality west of Dammard to the east of Chezy, and more than a kilometre (five-eights of a mile) to the north of Neuilly La Poterie. We captured about 50 prisoners.

Further to the south the enemy violently attacked on two occasions our positions on the Bouresches-La Thiolet front.

We broke up the assaults of the enemy, who sustained heavy losses without obtaining any advantage. On the rest of the front the night was relatively calm.

Saturday Night.

The artillery duel was fairly lively in the region of Hangard-en-Santerre, between the Oise and the Aisne, and south of the Aisne.

We continued to advance in the Neuilly La Poterie-Bussiares region, and penetrated into the village of Eluop. The enemy attempted to check the advance which we made yesterday on the Chezy-Dammard front by launching violent counter-attacks. In this region our troops broke up all the enemy's attempts, and the enemy sustained heavy losses. We maintained all our gains.

Sunday.

The Germans launched at midnight, after a violent artillery preparation from the region to the north of Montdidier to the east of the Oise. Our batteries immediately intensified their counter-fire. At 4.30 the enemy infantry proceeded to attack our positions between Montdidier and Noyon. Our troops are resisting with magnificent bravery. The battle is now in progress.

Between the Oise and the Aisne we this morning carried out a detail operation east of Haute Braye, and gained ground, taking some 60 prisoners.

South of Ourcq we improved our positions. East of Chezy the enemy who, at 11 p.m. yesterday, succeeded in penetrating into our lines in the direction of Vinly, was immediately ejected by our counter-attacks. About the same hour we carried the Eloup Wood, and this morning the wood immediately to the south of Bussiares. These operations gave us 200 prisoners, including five officers.

West of Rheims, after a sharp bombardment, the enemy attacked in the Vrigny district, and sustained serious losses in without obtaining any result.

Sunday Night.

The fresh offensive, begun by the German Army this morning, developed with sustained violence on a front of 35 kilometres (21¾ miles) between Montdidier and the Oise.

The enemy, using important forces, again and again repeated his efforts to break in our lines. Our troops everywhere withstood shock, and along the whole line of battle fought obstinate engagements, which stopped, or seriously slowed down, the enemy thrust.

On the left the Germans did not succeed in crossing our cover zone, and were firmly grappled by our troops on the line Rubecourt-le-Fritoy-Mortemer, which they reached.

In the centre the enemy's progress was more appreciable. After successive attacks, which were murderous for their troops, the Germans succeeded in getting a footing in the villages of Ressons-sur-Matz, and Mareuilles, where our first line units are continuing the defence, contesting the ground foot by foot.

On our right the enemy encountered a resistance no less vigorous.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

Saturday Afternoon.

Army group of the Crown Prince Rupprecht—Artillery firing and reconnoitring engagements have revived intermittently.

Army Group of the German Crown Prince—Renewed enemy attacks north-west of Chateau Thierry, and counter-attacks to recover the line lost on the Ardre, only brought him unimportant gains of territory. Several attacks by French, American, and British regiments broke down with heavy losses. For the rest the situation is unchanged.

Saturday Evening.

On the battle front the situation is unchanged.

Sunday.

Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht—The artillery duel increased many times in the evening, and early this morning it increased in intensity in the Kemmel region, south of Somme, and on the Avre. Local attacks by the French south of Ypres, and by the English north of Beaumont Hamel, were sanguinarily repulsed.

Army Group of German Crown Prince—On the Oise the fighting activity revived. Local attacks of the French, on the southern bank and south of the Ourcq, failed. A thrust by our troops east of Outry resulted in the capture of 45 prisoners.

The Americans, who again attempted to attack north-west of Chateau Thierry, were driven back beyond their positions of departure, with heavy losses, and prisoners were captured.

Army Group of Duke Albrecht—In a successful undertaking on the east bank of the Moselle we captured prisoners.

Sunday Night.

West of the Oise we have captured the height of Gury and the adjoining enemy lines.

Lord Rhondda's progress not being so satisfactory, his medical advisers have ordered him absolute rest and quiet for a fortnight.

While engaged in fishing, a trawler brought up a mine in its net, and, before the crew could cut it clear, the roll of the ship dragged the mine against the vessel's side. An explosion followed, and the trawler foundered. A vessel which went to the assistance of the crew brought in survivors, and landed two bodies. Four men are missing.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE RENEWED.

FRENCH ATTACKED ON A WIDE FRONT.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent with the French Army, telegraphing on Sunday, says:—

The German offensive re-opened early this morning on a 25-mile front between Noyon and Montdidier. A heavy gas shell bombardment began at midnight, to which our batteries replied with intensive counter-preparation fire.

The activity of the Boche guns on this sector, especially registration fire, was mentioned in my despatch yesterday, and our guns and infantry were immediately prepared to respond.

According to reports up to the middle of the morning the enemy gains have been practically confined to our advanced zone, which is within range of the destructive fire of his minenwerfer. Our principal line of resistance had not been touched when the latest reports were sent off.

BRITISH POSITIONS SHELLED.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent with the British Army in France, telegraphing yesterday, says:—

The Germans were shelling the British positions in the region of Albert very heavily from midnight until well after sunrise this morning, employing great quantities of gas projectiles. For a while it looked as if they designed to launch an attack against this part of the front in continuation of their renewal of the offensive against the French, and our troops stood to in readiness for anything that might come.

Our own artillery retaliated heavily upon the enemy trenches, lengthening the range from time to time, so as to smother any attempt at assembly in the rear areas. However, no infantry action followed.

In Flanders, too, hostile shelling has been intense in various sectors, the Monte Merris, which Australian troops recently took, being furiously pounded.

The weather over the northern fighting area shows every sign of breaking, and the enemy may shortly find his difficulties increased by heavy rain.

THE ITALIAN FRONT.

Italian Official—Saturday—No infantry fighting took place along the lines. The activity of both artilleries, which continued fairly considerable along the mountain front at intervals, increased astride the Piave and in the coastal zone. The enemy's aviation camp between the Piave and the Livenza, and the railway station of Caldonazzo, surprised while in full activity, were effectively bombarded by our aeroplanes and airships. In air fighting ten enemy machines were brought down.

Sunday.—The struggle of the artillery was somewhat intense from the Astico to the Piave, and moderate on the rest of the front. To the south of the Assa a British party during a successful coup de main inflicted considerable losses on the enemy, and brought back eleven prisoners. To the east of the Brenta one of our detachments carried out a raid on Mount Pertica, succeeding in doing great damage to the defences and garrison. A few prisoners and one machine gun were captured. In the Vallarsa and in the Astico Valley attacks attempted by the enemy infantry were arrested by our airships.

U-BOAT ACTIVITY OFF AMERICAN COAST.

That the policy of sending U-boats to the American coasts has critics in Germany seems clear, says Reuter's Amsterdam Correspondent, from a Berlin telegram to the Cologne Gazette, in which the correspondent thinks it necessary to try to rebut objections based on the view that the war spirit and the war fury in America are likely to be increased by such actions.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER SUNK.

A New York telegram, dated Friday, states that a German submarine sank the Norwegian steamer Vinland that morning. Nineteen survivors have been landed.

A telegram from an Atlantic port says:—Nineteen survivors of the Norwegian steamer Vinland have arrived. They said that they were torpedoed off Delaware Cape during the morning. The Vinland was en route for England.

AERIAL POST.

FLIGHTS BETWEEN PARIS AND LONDON.

"The Petit Parisien (says Reuter's Paris Correspondent) writes:—The French aviators, Heraldy and Lorgnat, on Friday made a new attempt to establish a postal service between Paris and London, which was completely successful. They left Besons, near Paris, at 1.5 p.m., carrying 300 kilogrammes of mails, and arrived in London at 3.50 p.m. They left at 4.5 p.m., reaching Besons at 6.40 p.m. The rapidity of this flight allows one to hope for a regular service which will assure the receipt of a reply to a letter sent on the same day. The achievement of Heraldy and Lorgnat constitutes a record for the distance covered.

The Journal, writing on Sunday, says that the aviators, Le Mercier and Duervez, on Saturday carried despatches from Paris to Lyons and back. Leaving Vincennes at 6.40 in the morning, they arrived at Lyons at 11.15. Leaving Lyons at 1.20 in the afternoon, they returned to Paris at 6.5 in the evening.

The General Secretary of the Postal Administration, in a statement in the Petit Journal on the subject of aerial posts, said:—We are still quite at the beginning. No aerial postal service has yet been started. We are studying several services, especially between Paris and Rome and Paris and London, but we have not yet obtained any definite result. It will be necessary to employ a model embodying the characteristics of the aeroplane and the seaplane, and such a model is not yet altogether ready.

DEFENCE OF PARIS.

A Press Association war telegram from Paris yesterday says:—The bombardment of the Paris district by the long-range gun was resumed this morning.

A Press Association war telegram from Paris, dated Thursday (delayed), says:—

A decree has been issued appointing, under the authority of the Ministry of War, a Committee for the defence of the entrenched camp of Paris. It is instructed to execute and control the execution of measures for the organisation, armament, and provisioning of the entrenched camp. General Dubail has been appointed President of the Committee.

The Petit Parisien says:—It will prove to those who may rashly have doubted it, that the Government intends to take every measure to preserve the capital from the enemy. The events of the past fortnight have proved the necessity for taking precautions against any surprise, however improbable. The possibility of an eventual attack on the entrenched camp is contemplated. The attack may be far distant, and may be, perhaps, still averted. The decree is an act of foresight, not of despair. It should not disturb, but strengthen.

WAR CORRESPONDENT WOUNDED.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent with the American Army, France, telegraphing on June 8th, says:—

Mr. Floyd Gibbons, the Special Correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, was severely wounded yesterday while trying, in company with two Army officers, to reach the American front line in the Clignon Valley, near Chateau Thierry. A German machine gun, which had been overrun by the line of advance, fired on the group, and when, after hiding in a wheatfield for a while, two of the party made a dash to escape, both of them were hit, the officer badly in the arm, and Mr. Gibbons in the left eye and shoulder. They had, however, to remain concealed in the wheat till nightfall. Both the wounded men bore their injuries with the utmost fortitude. The comparative security of trench warfare has caused us somewhat to forget the surprises attendant upon open fighting in the thickly-wooded country.

"TRENCH FEVER" IN BELFAST.

The medical profession in Belfast are at present investigating what appears to be a new disease. Over fifty cases have already been reported in one district. The symptoms are sudden faintness and a sharp pain in the lower part of the back. So far all patients have been successfully treated, and in no case has it proved fatal. The disease has been described as "trench fever."

FRENCH PRESIDENT'S IMPRESSIONS.

M. Clemenceau left yesterday morning, says a Paris telegram on Sunday, on another visit to the front, returning to Paris in the evening.

The Petit Journal says:—M. Clemenceau brought back an excellent impression from his visit to one of the most active sectors of the present front.

COURTMARTIAL RESULT.

Gerald Boland, civilian, of Crooksling, Co. Dublin, tried by District Courtmartial on 4th June, 1918, under the Defence of the Realm Regulations, for breach of the Military Exercises and Drill (Ireland) Order 1916, at Crooksling on the 7th May, was found guilty, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment, without hard labour. The General Officer Commanding-in-Chief has confirmed the finding and sentence.

GERMAN - IRISH TREASON.

PROSECUTIONS IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE CHARGE AGAINST O'LEARY.

A New York Reuter telegram states that the warrant for the arrest of Jeremiah O'Leary was issued on May 20th, when he failed to answer a charge of obstructing recruiting. From the beginning of the war he is said to have worked with German agents to combat American participation in the war. He also helped to establish the Friends of Ireland Society, which circulated a treacherous propaganda throughout the country.

Mme. Marie K. de Victorica was arrested on April 27th charged with spreading German propaganda, and was said to have received money from a mysterious lieutenant in the German Navy. The last-named (described as Lieutenant-Commander X.) has also been indicted, together with Albert P. Fricke, Williard J. Robinson, Karl Rodiger, John T. Ryan, and Emil Kipper. Mme. de Victorica and Karl Rodiger are foreigners. The five others, who are citizens of the United States, are charged with treason. Rodiger was arrested a month ago on suspicion. Ryan is a lawyer of Buffalo, who was mentioned in the indictment, but was not actually indicted in connection with the plot to blow up the bridge over the Welland Canal.

The Washington Correspondent of the Associated Press states that the Department of Justice expects the disclosure of evidence of the plots by German agents and Irish agitators in the United States to promote a rebellion in Ireland, as a result of the indictment of Jeremiah O'Leary and the other defendants. Public officials have intimated that sensational facts concerning the relations of the Germans and Irish leaders would develop at the trial, and it is stated that O'Leary, who knew the charges which the Government was prepared to make, fled recently before his trial on the charge of publishing disloyal matter. There are indications in New York that these indictments may be followed by other indictments, both in New York and elsewhere.

The indictments against Jeremiah O'Leary charge him with the collecting and transmission of information regarding the conduct of the war; the destruction of piers, docks, and troop transports with bombs; the destruction of quicksilver mines; with hampering the manufacture of munitions; assisting Germany in landing an armed expedition in Ireland; the fomentation of a revolt in Ireland; raising funds here to finance these operations; and the destruction of munition factories and mines in Great Britain. The indictments also allege his participation in a conspiracy to commit treason, and in a conspiracy to commit espionage. The seven individuals who have been indicted with O'Leary are charged with complicity in both conspiracies.

ROUNDING UP ALIEN ANARCHISTS.

A Washington telegram, dated Friday, states that under a bill, which has been favourably reported on in the House of Representatives, all alien anarchists will be rounded up for immediate deportation. The present laws forbid the deportation of aliens if they have been five years in the United States.

HELPLESSNESS OF THE NATIONALIST PARTY.

MR. DILLON'S ADMISSIONS.

At a meeting of the South Tipperary Farmers' Association, Mr. E. Cummins, J.P., Chairman, presiding, a letter was read from Mr. John Dillon, M.P., which said:—

"I have your letter of June 4, with copy of resolution, re income tax, passed by the Farmers' Association. The resolution will have my most careful attention, but I feel bound once more to impress upon your Association that this outrageous increase in the income tax on farmers would never have been proposed by the Government had the Irish Party remained in Parliament with undiminished power. So long as the Irish Party were in a position to speak in the House of Commons in the name of the united Nationalists of Ireland, the Government felt that they were unable to carry such oppressive taxes on the land of Ireland. The recent divisions, however, which have occurred in the Nationalist ranks and the loss of several elections, have so weakened the power of the Irish Party that the Government were encouraged to make this proposal, which I have already stated had often been pressed upon them by the Radical Party and by members representing urban constituencies in Great Britain. I shall do everything in my power to protect the farmers against oppressive taxation such as this, but I feel bound to warn your Association that at the present moment the power of the party has been seriously weakened. I confess I look with some curiosity to see what course of action is proposed by the leaders of Sinn Fein to resist oppressive taxation of this character. They seem to be of opinion that the proper way to deal with such matters is to ignore the existence of the British Parliament and British law, but for my part I greatly fear that, if the farmers of Tipperary trust to measures of this character, the consequences will be far from agreeable.

Mr. R. H. O'Shea, J.P., thought the members should go over and look after their interests.

The Chairman thought the letter inconsistent, as Mr. Dillon condemned the Sinn Fein policy of abstention while he practised it himself.

Mr. Riall considered that the farmers ought to have a Parliamentary representative of their own. They would never do any good in any other way.

Mr. Kennedy—What constituency would return them?

Mr. Riall—Some place would in England, if not in Ireland.

Chairman—Mr. Dillon admits abstention is a great loss to our interests.

Mr. Riall—He is trotting after Sinn Fein every day.

Major Phillips thought they ought to keep out of politics. The letter from Mr. Dillon was hard to understand.

Mr. Walsh—He says he will do all in his power to protect the Irish farmers.

Major Phillips—Not one of the Irish members, the majority of whom represent agricultural interests, opened their mouths against the tax.

Mr. Walsh—They were not there at all.

Mr. R. H. O'Shea—None of the Northern M.P.'s spoke either.

Chairman—Agriculture is not such a staple industry in the north as it is here.

The letter was marked "read."

A SURPRISE IN EAST CAVAN.

NATIONALIST MEMBER SUPPORTS SINN FEIN.

A meeting in support of the candidature of Mr. Arthur Griffith, the Sinn Fein candidate, was held at Stradone, Cavan, last evening in very inclement weather, and the attendance was on the small side.

Mr. T. F. M'Kenna, J.P., Mullagh, said that this was the first time in the history of national politics that a body of men calling themselves Nationalists had come out in all their might to join England in striking at a man in jail for Ireland, but East Cavan would elect as its representative Arthur Griffith. (Cheers.)

Rev. Dr. Brown, Maynooth, said that it might be inferred from Mr. Dillon's words that he wished the voluntary recruiting scheme well, but he had not expressed himself very clearly about it. But two of his lieutenants, Mr. Stephen Gwynn and Mr. Hugh Law, had made their position very clear, and they had not been disavowed by Mr. Dillon, or put outside the ranks of the Irish Party. In conclusion, he appealed to the electors of East Cavan to endorse the demand for a separate and independent nationhood.

Mr. Patrick White, M.P., who was received with cheers, said that he had come there to help the men of East Cavan in doing the most patriotic duty that any body of Irishmen could do, and that was to elect Arthur Griffith. It was stated that Mr. O'Hanlon stood for the policy of Parnell and Davitt, but, as one of the oldest members of the Irish Party, he repudiated their right to say that, because whenever an Irishman was struck at by England Parnell always took the side of the Irishman, and repudiated the right of England to interfere with any Irishman. (Cheers.) He hoped that the electors of East Cavan would realise that every vote for Griffith was a vote for Ireland's right to be free, and that every vote for O'Hanlon was a vote for slavery. (Cheers.)

Rev. M. O'Flanagan, C.C., who was enthusiastically received, said that the attendance of men, women, and children on such a very inclement day showed that the spirit of nationality was as strong in Cavan as in Clare or Roscommon. Would the Parliamentary Party be able to collect a meeting on such a day? He did not think so. Proceeding, he quoted from the speeches of the late Mr. John Redmond and of Mr. Dillon referring to the war, and said that the position then reminded him of a game that he used to play when a child. It was known as "hoult for hoult." (Laughter.) But at the beginning of the war Mr. Redmond did not ask "hoult for hoult," and they got a Home Rule Bill on the Statute Book. (Laughter.)

Replying to a voice, the rev. speaker said that he did not want to hurt any Irish War Office platform with rotten eggs, for the man who threw a rotten egg was a rotten Irishman no matter whether he was a Sinn Feiner or a Parliamentarian. They should be prepared to listen to the arguments of every man, and to go with the man if they were convinced by his arguments. Hooliganism will win no election, he added, and I don't believe the hooliganism is on our side, for it is lies and porter that cause it, and there is nothing of that kind on our side. (Cheers.) He believed that the people were being told that the Rev. Dr. Browne was not a priest at all. (Laughter.) But if they wanted to know who Dr. Browne was let them ask any of the Maynooth students. In conclusion, he said that when the result of the poll in East Cavan was announced next week it would be reported, not as in the case of Waterford City, as a British victory in Ireland, but as an Irish victory.

RUSSIAN AFFAIRS.

MARTIAL LAW IN MOSCOW.

The Soviet Commissioners, says Reuter's Moscow Correspondent, writing on May 30th, have proclaimed martial law in Moscow, in view of the connection which has been found between the counter-Revolutionary conspirators, headed by the Social Revolutionaries on the Right, and the mutiny of a Cossack regiment at Krasnoff on the Don, and the rising of the White Guard in Siberia, together with the agitation of those who are trying to utilise the food difficulties of the people in the interests of the establishment of the power of the capitalists and landowners.

Reuter's Correspondent at Moscow, writing on 31st May, says:—As has already been done for Petrograd, all the chief Moscow newspapers, bourgeois and Socialist, have been suspended. A manifesto of the Bolshevik Commissioners to the workmen and peasants concludes:—"At last heroic efforts are necessary. The enemies of the people have raised their heads too early. We will cut off this criminal head with the merciless sword of the revolution. All to arms! Forward for bread for starving children, fathers, and mothers; forward against the counter-revolutionary rebels and conspirators! Death to the enemies of the people."

Samara has been declared in a state of siege.

A telegram from Kharkoff states that the Germans have occupied the railway junction of Lisky, near Voronesh, to which the Soviet soldiery had fallen back.

President Wilson, says a Reuter message from Washington, has received a communication from the Russo-American Chamber of Commerce in Moscow, expressing hope for a complete victory over the militaristic caste in Germany. This communication was sent on the occasion of the recent death of the American Consul-General in Moscow. It stated that the Russian people rely on the economic support of the Allies for the restoration of normal conditions in Russian life, and for the reconstruction of the power of Russia, so that she may again find herself in the ranks of the brave friends of the Allies in defence of those ideals of humanity, righteousness, and liberty, which have been so roughly trampled under foot. The State Department learns that Mr. Francis, the United States Ambassador to Russia, has returned to Petrograd for a short stay.

THE ALLIES AND INTERVENTION.

A Paris telegram, dated Thursday, states that M. Pichon, Minister for Foreign Affairs, made before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber a statement on the Russian situation, and the negotiations regarding the intervention of Japan in Siberia, as well as the decision of the recent Session of the Inter-Allied War Council at Versailles.

THE SUNKEN KONINGIN REGENTES.

GERMAN STATEMENTS.

A Reuter's message from The Hague says:—The first official reports regarding the sinking of the Koningin Regentes, received by the naval authorities, have led to a fresh enquiry by a special technical commission.

A Berlin official telegram, after declaring that no prisoners of war were on board the Koningin Regentes, states that on the safe lane for hospital vessels no mines have been laid from the German side.

Another Berlin official telegram, referring to the assertions of members of the crew of the Koningin Regentes, that the ship was torpedoed, says that after the agreement made with Holland by the German Government for the safe crossing of vessels carrying prisoners, and the orders which, in accordance with such agreements, were given to submarines, it is quite out of the question that the Koningin Regentes was attacked by a German submarine.

A more detailed official denial regarding the sinking of the Koningin Regentes, which has been sent to the Dutch Press from the German Naval Quarters, says that it is out of the question that a German submarine could have known whether or not the British Delegation was on board the Koningin Regentes, and that a torpedo attack was the more improbable, as the German Naval forces assume as a certainty that there are German exchanged prisoners on board all the hospital ships going to Holland.

The Frankfurter Zeitung, after reporting statements made by the Dutch captain and seamen of the sinking of the Koningin Regentes, says that, according to precise information received, the assertion that a German torpedo sank the Koningin Regentes is more than nonsensical.

Asked about the sinking of the Koningin Regentes, says Reuter's Amsterdam Correspondent, Sir George Cave said:—The members of the British Commission who were on the Sindoro were on the lower deck at the time of the accident, and did not see the actual explosion. They, however, came on the upper deck at once, and saw everything that followed. I was very much struck by the way the boats were got away. Only a few minutes elapsed between the explosion and the sinking of the vessel, during which interval all the boats were lowered and got clear, excellent seamanship being displayed throughout.

EXPORTATION OF HERRINGS.

FOOD CONTROLLER'S NEW ORDER.

The Food Controller announces that the quantity of herrings now in the country is so large that he will be prepared to give favourable consideration to applications for licences to export cured herring to Allied countries, provided that no herrings are purchased by the curers for the export trade which are capable of being absorbed by the home market. The demands of the home market cover not only fresh herrings, but also kippers, bloaters, canned and cured herring. Any cured herring that may be requisitioned by the Food Controller for home consumption will be taken over on the basis of the maximum prices fixed by that Order. Applications for licences must be restricted to herring put into cure before July 15th. Applications for export licences should be made on the usual form, and forwarded to the War Trade Department, 4 Central Buildings, Westminster, London, S.W. 1.

A TIPPERARY BOARD AND THE ARRESTS.

At the Clonmel Guardians' meeting Mr. O'Mara suggested a protest against the imprisonment of their fellow-countrymen and women.

The Chairman said they would be happy to pass such a resolution.

Mr. Michael O'Ryan said they should be careful about such a resolution. If they asked for a trial it would be recognising British law, and be like appealing to the devil in the court of hell. He knew there was not the smallest iota of truth in the statement that there was a German plot.

Mr. Lyons then proposed a resolution calling for the release of their imprisoned fellow-countrymen and women.

Mr. O'Ryan seconded, and referred to the work of Mr. Lloyd George to blacken the name of Ireland—conscription, no Popery campaign, and the German plot. A Conscription Bill was passed in ten days, but it took thirty years to attempt to do anything for Ireland's benefit. The forces in the country had been too strong against them, and as a last resort the "political strategist" unearthed the German plot. It was meant to divide Ireland and to alienate the Irish in America, but it did not work. No matter what people thought, the danger of conscription was still very near, and the recent change in the Irish Executive did not portend anything good.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

THE BOMB INCIDENT NEAR BALLINA.

James Stuart, Carrow, Coshlane, Ballina, was on Saturday, at a special Court in Ballina, charged with inflicting grievous bodily harm on one Michael Doherty by exploding a bomb in the midst of a crowd, of which Doherty was one.

Mr. Carrigg defended.

Evidence was given by the injured man that he was coming from an open-air dance on the banks of the River Moy with a number of girls and boys, and was passing near the defendant's house, when he heard a loud explosion. The crowd was singing "The Soldier's Song," but did not hiss or booh the defendant. Another explosion followed, and immediately afterwards another, and the witness was hit behind the ear. He bled profusely. There was no reason why the defendant should injure him.

On cross-examination he denied that he had been drilling that night.

Dr. Keane gave evidence that Doherty sustained a fractured wound behind the left ear, and he could not know but the wound would have serious developments until that day. The wound could have been caused by the rough edge of a tin cannister projected with force.

William Brennan gave evidence that he was in the defendant's house at the time, and saw the defendant lighting a fuse attached to a tin cannister and hurling it on to the road where the crowd was. The crowd was shouting and boohing and singing "The Soldier's Song." He saw the defendant firing two cannisters. There were some expressions used by the crowd about the defendant being an Orangeman, but he heard nothing said about the accused being an informer or a spy.

Roger M'Nally, who was one of the crowd, denied that there was anyone in command of it.

Chairman—The suggestion is that this was a drilling party.

Witness further stated that he saw the accused coming out with a light in his hand, which he fired, and immediately afterwards there was an explosion. Doherty then shouted that he was killed, and the crowd ran.

In cross-examination he denied that the crowd was in military formation. Two other men were injured and three girls.

Margaret Lynch, a servant girl in the defendant's house, gave evidence as to seeing the defendant lighting the fuses on the bombs, and rushing with them out of the house. The crowd was calling him an "Orange b——."

The Chairman said that he looked on the case as so serious that he would return the accused for trial, not to the Criminal Quarter Sessions, but to the Assizes. Bail was allowed.

THE EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

CONFERENCE AT THE HAGUE.

Reuter's Correspondent at The Hague, telegraphing on Saturday, says:—The Conference between British and German delegates on the subject of prisoners of war opened here in the Treves Hall, at the Ministry of Public Works, at 2.45 this afternoon. The Netherlands Foreign Minister, Jonkheer Van Loudon, presided at this, the first meeting, whilst subsequently meetings will be attended on his behalf by Jonkheer Van Vredenburgh, the Netherlands Minister to the Scandinavian Courts, who is temporarily in Holland. The German delegates arrived first, and were conducted to a separate chamber by a Dutch Legation Attaché. The British delegates arrived a quarter of an hour later, and were similarly conducted to their room by an Attaché. The delegates of the two countries then met in the Treves Hall. It is expected that the Conference will last from ten to fourteen days. The Dutch Minister, in the name of the Dutch Government, welcomed the delegates, particularly those who were participating in the work for the first time, and expressed great satisfaction at this second meeting at The Hague. Whilst the war continued to rage, the Conference, he said, was founded on a basis of humanity, and had as its object the improvement of the lot of prisoners of war. The speaker recalled the various matters on which an agreement had been reached in 1917, and the happy results for thousands which had already flowed from it, and referred to one or two subjects which had already been accepted by both sides as points for discussion. The Minister, continuing, said that just as Holland, situated as she was in the midst of the struggling countries, had experienced many and more hardships as a result of the war, so, by offering hospitality, co-operating in alleviating the lot of prisoners of war, so also her entire willingness to grant assistance and mediation could be counted on. He was persuaded that the discussions would be carried on with the same spirit of conciliation which had been shown last year. In conclusion, the Minister, referring to the result obtained by the negotiations between Germany and France at Berne, expressed the hope and the firm expectation that the Conference would be successful.

General Friedrich, the first German delegate, and Sir George Cave, the first British delegate, replied to the Minister's speech. Both thanked him for Holland's hospitality, and especially for what she had done for prisoners of war.

Jonkheer Van Loudon then left the meeting, which was continued under the chairmanship of Jonkheer Van Vredenburgh, the Netherlands Minister to the Scandinavian Courts. It proceeded to draw up the programme of the Conference, which will deal, inter alia, with the following points:—(1) The continued and precise carrying out of existing agreements. (2) The treatment and employment of prisoners. (3) Reprisal measures. (4) The preparation of agreements relative to the return home, or the internment in a neutral country, of prisoners of war and interned civilians. (5) The method of selecting sick and wounded belonging to the category referred to under 4. (6) The improvement of camp conditions, including the food of prisoners of war and of the interned.

After some discussion of a general nature, the meeting was adjourned to ten o'clock on Monday. All meetings are to be held in the Treves Hall.

It is stated that the delegates did not shake hands, but bowed to each other at the opening of the proceedings.

Sir George Cave's Parliamentary Private Secretary, Mr. Locker-Lampson, informed the Pressmen at the close of the meeting that there was no statement to be made beyond the official communiqué, which is embodied in the foregoing report.

THE ANTI-CONSCRIPTION MOVEMENT.

"WOMAN'S DAY" IN DUBLIN.

Yesterday was observed as "The Woman's Day" by the Anti-Conscription Committee in Dublin. IN THE PROVINCES.

"Women's Day" was celebrated in Tipperary by a procession of 3,000 women and girls of the parish marching through the town, accompanied by the Roman Catholic clergy and the local band, to the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes. The procession returned to St. Michael's Church, where Monsignor Ryan [illegible] processionists signed the anti-conscription pledge.

About 700 women took part in the demonstration in Waterford. A procession was organised by [illegible], after which a big meeting was held in the Town Hall, which was presided over by Mrs. Hayden. The principal speakers were [illegible], who declared that the women were prepared to make the same sacrifices as the men. The anti-conscription pledge was signed afterwards.

In Bray a procession was held, and about 800 women and girls marched from the Town Hall to St. Peter's Church, Little Bray, where hymns were sung. The pledge was signed in the Town Hall, where a short address was delivered by Miss Alice Milligan.

MR. HODGE AND DISABLED SOLDIERS.

Addressing discharged sailors and soldiers at Bristol yesterday, Mr. John Hodge said he was constantly fighting the Treasury, and disabled men could help him [illegible] their necessities upon members of Parliament. All Government Departments were being combed out, and he was engaging disabled men to fill their vacancies. We were going to make further sacrifices to win the war, for if we were not victorious life would be unbearable. In some parts of Ireland very little sympathy with disabled men was shown by War Pension Committees, and he desired greater power to see justice was done to their Irish comrades.

SPECIAL EXTRA

THE NEW GERMAN ATTACK.

A new phase of the German offensive was opened yesterday morning at half-past four on a front of about twenty miles, extending from Montdidier to Noyon, says the Special Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. The artillery preparation, which was again rich in gas shells, began at midnight, and covered not only the front, but a deep zone beyond it, and especially the village and roads where the enemy thought to catch our local reserves. There were evident reasons for the choice of this sector, and in particular the central part of it, for a successful push south along the line of the Roye-Compiegne Railway would add another converging road to the four roads towards Paris by the Oise, Aisne-Ourcq, and Marne valleys, which have already been tried.

On the other hand, the enemy could not reasonably hope for any such surprise as was obtained in the first act of the offensive before St. Quentin, and in the third act on the Chemin des Dames. In general, our Allies are resisting with a dogged courage on their covering positions, which are beyond the range of the enemy mine-throwers.

Telegraphing yesterday, Mr. Hamilton Fyfe, Correspondent of the Daily Mail with the British Army, says:—There are at present no signs of the offensive between Noyon and Montdidier spreading to our front. Nor are there any appearances suggesting that we are to be immediately attacked elsewhere. It would be unwise, however, to conclude that the whole weight of the German effort to end the war before the Americans can turn the scale will continue to fall upon the French. They were expecting this latest blow, and seem to be dealing stoutly with it. If the German aim is to reach Paris, such an extension of their line of advance was certain to be attempted; but it may not be more than a subsidiary operation after all. Much more than the reaching of any particular place, even the French capital, the desire of the German High Command is to destroy the power of resistance of the Allied Armies.

RETURN OF THE NATIONALISTS.

If it be true, says the Morning Post, that Mr. Dillon and his party intend to come back to Westminster this week—though one cannot verify the statements to this effect—the Chief Secretary will have the opportunity for which he is said to be thirsting, to make an explanation and a defence of the Sinn Fein arrests. The Nationalist leader may think it desirable to force a discussion on a motion to adjourn the House, for he will feel bound to take the first chance of having a fling at the Government. The "comprehensive statement" promised by Mr. Bonar Law on the land bribe to Irish recruits is due to-morrow.

PARIS TO BE DEFENDED TO THE LAST.

A Times telegram from Paris says:—M. Clemenceau and his Government, following the example of General Gallieni, intend, should by any chance that step become necessary, to defend Paris and make of it the great pivot of French resistance. It is a good sign that such a possibility has been considered, and that steps have been taken to ensure that Paris shall not, as in 1914 at a similar critical moment, be left without solid organisation for its protection. A special Committee of Defence has been appointed, with General Dubail as president. At a moment such as this the Press must perforce say little, but I can state with authority that, although the enemy on the western front enjoys a number of advantages, such as superiority of numbers and internal lines of communication, the Government is confident that the Allied Armies will hold up any wild rush of the enemy upon the capital. The German advance has been stopped along the Marne, and the enemy now has endeavoured to find upon the Noyon-Montdidier line another road of approach to the capital. I am revealing no secret when I state that the offensive which was launched this morning upon this sector of the front is not a surprise to the unified command. Reserves are there to meet it, and although it is, of course, possible—everything is possible in war—that the Allies may have to give ground, there is no reason whatever to suppose that this fresh offensive will lead the Germans any nearer to their main objective than the last two. In any case, one thing is certain, and that is that Paris will be defended to the last.

CRIMES ACT PROSECUTION.

CHARGE AGAINST LIMERICK GUARDIANS.

Messrs. P. J. Kelly, R.M., and H. R. Jones, R.M., held a special court in Limerick on Saturday, under the Criminal Law and Procedure Act, for the hearing of a charge of unlawful assembly, on the 15th April last, against Mr. Joseph Keane, Chairman of the Limerick Board of Guardians, and 32 members of that body. The prosecution was at the suit of District Inspector Craig, and the proceedings excited general interest. There was a force of military and Constabulary on duty outside the court. All the defendants answered to their names.

Mr. W. S. Norwood, K.C., who (instructed by Mr. J. S. Gaffney, Crown Solicitor) appeared to prosecute, said that the defendants were charged with taking part in an unlawful assembly, and with intent to sow sedition, to bring the Constitution into contempt, destroy munitions, and induce Irishmen to quit the Army and the armies of England's Allies, unless conscription was stayed. The meeting was convened by circular, and all the defendants attended, the Chairman proposing the resolution, which was unanimously adopted. It spoke for itself, trumpet tongued, calling upon Irishmen to quit the Army and the armies of the Allies, which included America, now sending over her soldiers in great force.

Thomas Ryan, Clerk-Elect, produced the minute book of the meeting, but it was objected to, as it had not been signed by the Chairman.

Joseph J. Byrnes, Assistant Clerk, said that he was at the meeting on 15th April. The minute of the resolution was accurate, but he could not say as to the names taken by Mr. Ryan.

Mr. P. Kelly, who, with Messrs. P. J. O'Sullivan and J. Dundon, solicitors, appeared for the defendants, cross-examined the witness. He did not write up the minutes until 12 days after the meeting. He could not swear regarding the names typed in by Mr. Ryan.

Mr. Ryan, re-examined, stated he was only at the meeting at the beginning. He took down the names probably 12 days after. He could not swear that it was a true minute. He got the names out of a newspaper cutting, but could not swear to its accuracy. In answer to further questions, he said it was quite possible that the minutes were inaccurate. He was there when the first resolution was proposed.

Mr. Norwood—Who proposed that resolution? I don't recollect. He would not say that it was Mr. Keane.

Joseph Laffan, gate porter, said he took the names of the guardians who passed into the Boardroom on the 15th April. There were 50 names. He could not say whether any of the guardians named passed through.

In answer to Mr. Norwood, the witness said that a guardian could pass into the Workhouse premises and he not notice him.

This closed the case for the Crown, and two witnesses were called for the defence to prove an alibi for Michael Neill, one of the defendants.

Counsel addressed the magistrates.

Mr. O'Sullivan said that he appeared for 19 of the defendants, who were not in sympathy with the resolution, save as regarded conscription. That was their feeling before the 15th April, on that date, and it was their feeling now.

After half an hour's deliberation,

Mr. Kelly said that the magistrates were satisfied that this highly illegal and seditious meeting was an unlawful assembly, but as regarded the guardians present the only evidence they had was that of the 50 names of guardians in the porter's book, and that they went into the Workhouse premises, but there was nothing to show that they were in the Boardroom. The witnesses called to substantiate the minutes did not substantiate them or identify any of the defendants as being present at the meeting, and one of the witnesses would not say but that the minute sent to the Local Government Board might not be inaccurate. That evidence was unsatisfactory, and there was no evidence before the Court to say that any of the defendants were present. Although the meeting was clearly an unlawful assembly, the magistrates were, in the circumstances, obliged to dismiss the case without prejudice. (Applause in court.)

SUCCESSFUL FETE AT TEMPLE HILL HOSPITAL.

The fete at Temple Hill Auxiliary Hospital, Blackrock, enjoyed the very last hour of the good weather on Saturday. It was the most successful of the many affairs of this kind which have been given in aid of the hospital. The fete was well organised, much favoured by the sunshine, well attended, and generously supported by the gifts of the guests. The pretty grounds surrounding the house made a beautiful setting for the fete, and all the afternoon and evening the scene was as pretty and as busy as the organisers could desire. Amongst the principal friends of the hospital and givers of gifts to the "Pound Day" were:—Mr. Justice and Mrs. Madden, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hodgson, Mrs. Carlyle, Miss Hackett, Bray; Mr. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. W. M'Cormick, Mrs. Ormsby-Hamilton, Mrs. Hamilton Hunter, Mr. S. A. Quan Smith, Major and Mrs. Law, Mr. Townley, Mrs. J. Cantwell, Mr., Mrs., and Miss Grogheran, Mr. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Miller, Mrs. Finn, Miss Spring, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Stanley, Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. Claude Fulcher, Madame Armand, Countess Salazar, etc. The business done at the various stalls was remarkably good, and while the attendants worked and the visitors amused themselves, the band of Carriglea House School performed a pleasant programme of music. Mrs. Tittle Hamilton had charge of the games. The Sacrifice Stall and Hat Trimming Competition—most successful affairs—were in the hands of Mrs. Brereton Barry, Lady Grace, and Mrs. Wade. Mrs. Courtney and Mrs. Homan ran the Cake Stall. Miss Hughes, the Matron, very appropriately presided at the Soldiers' Handicraft Stall, and very proudly displayed the examples of her patients' skill and industry. Sister Delany ran the tea tables and refreshments department in a highly satisfactory and pleasant way, assisted by a bright bevy of the hospital staff. Mrs. Martin, Miss Law, and Miss Symes did good business at the Vegetable and Country Produce Stall. Private Kelly was successful with the Bran Dip. Everybody enjoyed the day.

ST. COLUMBA'S COLLEGE.

OLD BOYS' WAR SERVICES.

The annual prize distribution at St. Columba's College, Rathfarnham, took place on Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance, and, the weather being excellent, the function proved of a thoroughly enjoyable character. Evensong was held in the College Chapel at 3.30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. W. Blackburn, M.A. (Warden), and the Lesson was read by Rev. Precentor Hogan. The beautiful anthem, "Hallelujah! Praise to God's Almighty Son" (Beethoven), was sung.

The prize distribution took place subsequently in the big schoolroom, the chair being taken by the Provost of Trinity College (Dr. Mahaffy). Among those on the platform were Fellows of the College, including the Rev. E. J. Gwynn, F.T.C.D.; E. H. Alton, F.T.C.D.; H. C. Bowen, K.C.; Rev. Precentor Hogan, Dr. Croly, Medical Officer; Rev. W. Blackburn (Warden), Mr. R. C. Orpen, and the masters of the school.

The Chairman, who was received with loud applause in opening the proceedings, said that he was, perhaps, the oldest man in the room, with the exception of Precentor Hogan, and he had learned in his long life the value of time; consequently he would not detain the audience, but would call upon the Warden to read his report.

The Rev. W. Blackburn (Warden) read his report, in the course of which he said that, owing to the shadow of the war being over so many homes to-day, they did not follow their usual custom of sending out formal invitations; but from that he would except one visitor and friend of the school, the Lord Primate, whom an engagement in London prevented from presiding at their gathering as in former years. The year had been a difficult and anxious one, not only on account of the great war, but also on account of the internal situation of Ireland itself. In spite of difficulties, however, they had had a useful year, and so far as numbers were concerned had passed all previous records, their present numbers being 118. Three new small dormitories had been opened, and a new stone building erected to provide an extra classroom and linen-room. It was pleasing to reflect that, like the chapel and the hall, this new building had been built of granite hewn from Columba's generous stones. During the year they had had an excellent bill of health, without a single case of infectious disease. The college farm, with its enlarged area of tillage, had placed them in a very favourable position in the matter of food supply, especially when compared with schools across the water. The ordinary interests and games of the boys had been well kept up; athletic sports had been revived, and they had re-created the school Debating Society. The O.T.C. were looking forward to the camp which the War Office was arranging for them next month. (Applause.) The large part that military training played in the week's curriculum, the early passing from school to the Army, and, still more, the general concentration of the boy's mind on military things to the exclusion of all other ambitions, militated greatly against academic successes such as were aimed at in pre-war times. The only University success of importance gained during the past year was that of S. Scott, who won the Alexandra Open Prize for Latin in Alberta University, while still under military age. (Applause.) Proceeding, the Warden dealt with the various successes achieved by the college students, including a senior cadetship into the Royal Navy and a pass high into Sandhurst. In the Intermediate Examinations one classical exhibition and five prizes were gained. Precentor Hogan and the Rev. E. J. Gwynn had been elected to the Board of Fellows. The Warden paid a tribute to the work of these gentlemen, and mentioned that Rev. Mr. Gwynn had been Acting Warden during a critical period of the school's history.

OLD BOYS' MILITARY DISTINCTIONS.

The list of military distinctions won by their past pupils during the year was a remarkable one, and included four C.B.'s, two C.M.G.'s; two holders of the D.S.O. had been awarded Bars, seven had won the D.S.O., one the D.S.C., one a bar to the D.S.C., while no fewer than twelve had won the Military Cross. (Applause.) Honours won by old boys also included the Order of the Crown of Italy and Chevalier de l'Ordre de Leopold, while many others had been mentioned in despatches.

The Warden then read the list of military distinctions gained during the past year, which, he said, he thought they would agree with him was a good one:—

Companion of the Bath—Brigadier-General R. O. Kellett, Brigadier-General A. F. W. Knox, Brigadier-General C. W. Gwynn, Lieutenant-Colonel W. Edgeworth-Johnstone.

C.M.G.—Lieutenant-Colonel B. B. Crozier, D.S.O.

Bar to D.S.O.—Lieutenant-Colonel Hunt, Major S. W. Hamilton.

D.S.O.—Colonel R. S. Hamilton, Lieutenant-Colonel W. J. Thompson, Lieutenant-Colonel J. de L. Langrishe, Lieutenant-Colonel J. D. Scott, Colonel J. D. Alexander, Lieutenant-Colonel C. R. M. Morris, Major C. G. M. Place.

D.S.C.—Lieutenant G. W. Price, R.A.F. (January).

Bar to D.S.C.—Lieutenant G. W. Price, R.A.F. (February).

Military Cross—Major E. F. Smyth, Captain C. C. Barry, Captain T. F. Given, Captain W. Pedlow, Captain A. A. Luce, Captain H. F. Carroll, Captain E. L. Newman, Captain J. W. Hughes, Lieutenant W. A. Lane, Captain T. R. B. Seigne, Captain J. D. Wordall, Second Lieutenant J. A. Lewis. N.B.—Capt. Seigne, just mentioned, was also promoted major for what is described in the despatch as "brilliant services."

Officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy—Lieutenant-Colonel Barton B. Crozier, D.S.O.

Chevalier de l'Ordre de Leopold—Colonel J. D. Alexander, Major G. W. Stacpoole.

Mentioned in Despatches—Colonel Brown, General Kellett (for third time), Colonel R. S. Hamilton (third time), Brigadier-General Gwynn (fourth time), Major Stacpoole (third time), Brigadier-General Knox (sixth time), Lieutenant-Colonel Anderson, for distinguished services; Lieutenant-Colonel Bowles (fourth time), Lieutenant-Colonel Thompson, Lieutenant-Colonel E. C. Phelan (second time), Lieutenant-Colonel Crozier (third time), Lieutenant-Colonel Langrishe, Captain Lane (second), Captain Babington (second), Captain Gore Hinds, Lieutenant W. Moore, Second Lieutenant H. Crookshank.

THE ROLL OF HONOUR.

The list of those who had won imperishable glory for their school and country by the sacrifice of their lives was a long one. No fewer than sixty-three had been killed, of whom five were ex-masters. Ten of these had fallen in the past year. At the request of the Warden, the audience rose and stood in silence while the Roll of Honour for the past year was read as follows:—

Lieutenant-Colonel John Davy Scott, D.S.O.; Major E. F. Smyth, M.C.; Captain Hugh C. Dobbs, Captain A. B. Hillas, Captain J. W. Battersby, Second Lieutenant Eric Falkiner, M.C. and Italian Bronze Medal for Valour; Second Lieutenant Vivian Barton, Second Lieutenant T. F. Webb, Lieutenant T. F. Sanderson, ex-master; Lance-Corporal H. G. Stamper.

Concluding, the Warden said that they had started a scheme for a permanent memorial of the devotion and sacrifice of old boys in the war, and their names would be recorded in the College Chapel. The scheme was a large one, and sought to be worthy of the cause. The second part of it would be a substantial memorial building, which would take the form of an extension of the present cloisters. Plans and a sketch had already been prepared by Mr. R. C. Orpen, and subscriptions were now being invited. It was not proposed to carry out any part of the scheme until the war was over, but subscriptions received in the meantime would be invested in War Bonds.

The Chairman distributed the prizes, and expressed his pleasure at the extremely healthy condition of the College, which was full of prizes and distinctions.

The Warden said that the Atdee Prize for drawing had not been won this year, but they would be pleased to know that Mr. R. C. Orpen had joined their staff, and would act as drawing master. The Warden proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Provost for his great kindness in attending to distribute the prizes. He said that the Provost was a very old friend of St. Columba's from the days when he played cricket on its field.

The vote of thanks was carried with acclamation.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

Irish Dairy Cattle Breeders.—In the report of the Irish Dairy Cattle Breeders' Association, which was printed on Saturday, the decrease of heifers allotted for breeding purposes was given as 4 per cent. The correct figure should be 40 per cent.

Queen's Theatre Concert.—The series of Sunday concerts was continued at the Queen's Theatre last evening, when an excellent programme was appreciated by a numerous audience. Amongst those whose services were requisitioned for the entertainment were:—Miss Terry Owens, Miss Joan Burke, Miss Annie Sandes, and Messrs. Wilfrid Virgo, Walter M'Nally, R. H. Seymour, and J. Collins.

Salvation Army Flag Day.—A successful flag day was held on Saturday under the auspices of the Salvation Army, for the purpose of assisting the work amongst the Army and Navy. The excellence of the object enlisted general support, and in recognition of the work of the Salvation Army there was a ready response to the appeal, on behalf of which Commandant Simmons, 28 Grove Park, Rathmines, is receiving donations.

Agricultural Wages Board for Ireland.—A meeting of the Board was held at 14 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, on Friday last. The following attended:—Mr. Charles H. O'Conor (Chairman); Mr. E. M. Archdale, D.L., M.P.; Mr. R. A. Butler, J.P.; Mr. James Clarke, J.P.; Sir Walter R. Nugent, Bart., M.P.; Mr. T. B. Ponsonby, D.L.; Mr. Cornelius Buckley, Co.C.; Mr. Patrick Bradley, Mr. Thomas Foran, Mr. James Murphy, Mr. Timothy Raleigh, Miss E. Margaret Cunningham, M.A.; the Right Hon. Lord Killanin, and Lady Russell; Mr. W. M. Bowers, Secretary; Mr. R. J. Purcell, Chief Clerk, and Mr. W. B. Butler, Registrar. Since their last meeting on the 19th April a large number of inspections had been carried out by the Board's Inspectors, and settlements between the employers and their workmen as to arrears of wages under the Board's orders had been effected in 139 cases. Through the Board's agency arrears had been paid to the workers amounting in all to £412, but this sum did not represent the full amount recovered, as in many cases the Board were only informed that a settlement had been reached.

The Clongowes Union.—The 21st annual general meeting of the Clongowes Union was held on Thursday last at University Hall, Hatch street, Dublin, and was confined to members of the Union alone. Very Rev. N. J. Tomkin, S.J., took the chair. Amongst those present were the following:—Henry J. Campbell, Esq., Hon. Treasurer; Sir Joseph M'Grath, LL.D., Hon. Secretary; Rev. George O'Neill, S.J., M.A.; P. A. MacDermott, Esq., F.R.C.S.I.; Rev. Richard O'Reilly, S.J.; F. W. Ryan, Esq., B.A.; Patrick Rath, Esq.; Daniel Boolin, Esq., L.D.S.I.; Daniel Doyle, Esq., LL.B.; Rev. George Roche, S.J.; T. Bodkin, Esq., B.A. The report and balance-sheet for 1916-17 were considered and adopted. The Chairman announced the names of the winners of prizes as follows:—Union Gold Medal in Religious Knowledge—John A. M'Grath; Union Silver Medal in Religious Knowledge—Frederick Towers; Union Gold Medal in English Composition—John A. M'Grath; Palles Gold Medal in Mathematics—John A. M'Grath; Very Rev. Provincial's Prize for Irish Essay—Richard J. Hayes. A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector and Community of University Hall, and the meeting adjourned. Owing to the continuance of the war, the re-union usually held at Clongowes Wood College early in June will not take place.

DISCHARGED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

At the monthly meeting of the City of Dublin War Pensions Committee—Sir J. Gallagher presiding—the Secretary announced that he had received a cheque for £200 from Mr. J. Malcolm Lyon, of Westbury, Wiltshire. The donation is intended to help to relieve urgent cases of distress that may come under the notice of the Committee, and yet not be eligible for assistance from the funds at the disposal of the Ministry of Pensions. The Committee passed a resolution of thanks to Mr. Malcolm Lyon for his generous gift.

Millinery

that has taxed the ingenuity and artistic propensities of innumerable Modistes in the Fashion Centres of all the great capitals of the world for years is as yet unsolved. It changes from day to day; is discussed from year to year; studied with the opening of every new season; yet the eternal question is asked—What is the prettiest style of Head Wear for this face and that? What blending of colours suit the Fair Damosel, and what the Brunette? What touch is most becoming to the oval contour, and which to the round? All these are the points that have to be considered by those who desire to succeed in even partially solving this, to the feminine mind.

MOST MOMENTOUS QUESTION.

Let your Hat be costly as your purse can buy, if it has not that "chic" style, the dainty touch, the indefinable something that lends a charm to the head that wears it, all is flat and unprofitable.

McBirney and Co. have given the subject the most careful consideration for some time, and believe they have gone a good way toward the elucidation of the mystery, for the present season at least, by getting together from the Leading Markets a collection of the latest Models selected on the spot by

Their Buyer, who possesses remarkable taste and judgment. She has again returned from the markets and during this week a special exhibit of the selection there made will be on view in their windows and warerooms, amongst which the following are deserving of notice:—

LONDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The annual concert and presentation of diplomas, certificates, and prizes of the Dublin centre of the London College of Music were held on Saturday in the supper room of the Mansion House. Mr. Daniel S. Doyle presided, and in his opening address remarked that there were in Ireland five centres where examinations for diplomas were held.

The Principal of the College, Dr. Frederick J. Karn, Mus. Bac. Cantab., in the course of an address, said that the avidity with which the people of Ireland took up music was amazing. The love of music was a primeval instinct and widely diffused, and the College had all over the world its examiners, who on occasions had to travel for days up rivers to carry out their work. It was sometimes asked how they could crib, confine, and capture anything so fugitive and elusive as the musical art and put it within the bounds of written or oral examinations. That, however, had apparently been done, by that College at least, in its curriculum. The College claimed to lay a foundation which could best be built upon—that among the young people, though they had higher examinations. They sought to raise the standard among the rank and file of the young people. The speaker emphasised the intellectual interest given to music by a knowledge of the foundation and structure of movements, the presentation and development of themes, and the progression of chords. The number of entries for theory alone—but a dozen or so out of a hundred—was disappointing, and they wanted to put students' practical work on a sounder and stronger basis. With that object the College had organised a simple preliminary examination in theory applicable to the abilities of children of six or eight. The work of the centre and through Ireland had increased by leaps and bounds. That was a considered expression, and the authorities of the College had been themselves amazed at its growth.

The local representative of the College, Miss L. Kelly, stated in her report that last April there was a slight decrease in the number of entries, but an increase at the examination just concluded. The continuance of the war had made no appreciable reduction in the entries received; in fact, over 100 students entered for June, and a large increase was anticipated for December. The College's work in the provinces was steadily spreading, and many students came from distant parts of the country to Dublin for examination, though there were centres in every important town. Entries for theory were increasing, also those for the higher practical examinations. It was satisfactory that the College was more than holding its own.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

MODERATOR'S CLOSING ADDRESS.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland concluded its deliberations in the Church House, Belfast, on Saturday, the Moderator (Right Rev. Dr. M'Granahan) presiding.

The Assembly approved the appointment of the following deputies chosen by the Business Committee:—

Deputies to the United Free Church of Scotland—Right Rev. the Moderator, and Rev. George Gillespie; Messrs. Hugh M'Neill, J.P., and David Irwin, J.P. Alternatives—Revs. A. F. Moody and D.D. Boyle, Messrs. A. W. Perry and John Haldane.

Corresponding members of the Synod of the Church of England—Right Rev. the Moderator and Rev. Dr. Osborne; Messrs. John Megaw and S. Lockington. Alternatives—Revs. D. Hay and J. M. M'Ilwrath, Messrs. J. J. Heatley and Alex. Miller.

A letter was received from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Australia, expressing warmest Christian sympathy with fellow-Presbyterians in the home country in the trials and sorrows through which so many must be passing at this time. The letter added:—"We would like you to feel that in the sorrows which have shadowed many homes in our own midst, we think also of those in the land from which we or our fathers have come, and with which the bonds of affection, however far-stretched, can never be broken. Our people and yours are one in faith, one in loyalty, one in sacrifice, and one also in determination to protect our Christian civilisation and the liberty of all nations against the ruthless ambition of a tyrannical military power. I desire also to convey through your Church the warmest appreciation of the Presbyterians of this land for the work of your chaplains among our Australian soldiers, and for their readiness to help our own chaplains wherever opportunity offered. We are also full of gratitude for the gracious kindness shown by the people in the home country to our wounded and convalescent soldiers, and I would be glad if you can make this expression of our gratitude known to your people."

It was decided that the Moderator should send a reply to the letter in the name of the Irish General Assembly.

MODERATOR'S ADDRESS.

In his closing address, the Moderator, referring to the war, said that during the last four years of tragedy and death, they had been wishing and praying for peace, hoping against hope that the end of strife was near. They were still in the grip of the enemy, but they had not lost heart or hope, for to do so would mean that faith was false, and justice a dream, and liberty but a name. The spirit that moved our nation to defend the weak had not died down. There was still a wealth of manhood, sacrifice, devotion, ready to offer itself on the altar of national service. That was the necessity of the moment, and the man who shrank from bearing his share of the burden of Empire had not rightly estimated the greatness of the issue at stake. The great hope of this war-stricken world, this perplexed generation of men, was that God walked on the waves of trouble, and that above the storm and tide we heard His voice: "It is I. Be not afraid." They could not see one step of the way before them, but they knew that God's invincible will and man's highest good were so closely linked that no power on earth or in hell could sever them. They separated, therefore, in the full assurance of a faith in God's love, believing that a better day was soon to dawn, and that broken-hearted humanity, touched by the healing hand of Christ, would be made strong to proclaim the advent of the kingdom of peace.

The Assembly concluded with the Benediction, pronounced by the Moderator.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

IRISH COAL SUPPLIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—With regard to the last recommendation of the Coal Committee for the Midland districts of Ireland, "that no coal merchant will supply any customer with more than 25 per cent. of the deliveries received by him during 1917," may I point out that those householders who have exercised the strictest economy during the past year would be placed in an impossible position, while those who have been extravagant would suffer little inconvenience?

During the eleven years ending December, 1915, my average annual coal consumption was 18.1 tons. In 1917 I succeeded in bringing this down to 14 tons, a diminution of 23 per cent. If 25 per cent. were to be deducted from the 14 tons, I should receive only 10.5 tons during the coming twelve months, or 42 per cent. less than the average before 1916. If I had not already been so careful, I should be entitled to 13.5 tons—a possible amount—whereas a reduction to 10.5 tons would involve a real danger to health.—Yours, etc.,

"HOUSEHOLDER."

Dublin, June 8th, 1918.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In the final paragraph of the Coal Committee's recommendations, published in yesterday's Irish Times, it is proposed that no merchant should supply any customer with more than 25 per cent. of the deliveries during 1917. This will hit very hardly those who have done their best to economise, and I cannot conceive the suggestion emanating from any Committee whose members have tried to reduce consumption of coal to the lowest possible limit. May I suggest, as an alternative, that a small committee of ladies be invited to fix the quantity of coal absolutely necessary in standard households for kitchen and one or two day-rooms, and that fires in bedrooms be prohibited except in the case of invalids on medical advice?—Yours, etc.,

"ECONOMIST."

Co. Dublin, June 8th, 1918.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It seems to me that the Corporation and the Urban District Councils might help considerably in the matter of coal saving, and I write to you to make a suggestion which, perhaps, more competent persons could devise some means of carrying out. A few weeks ago I was walking down Heytesbury street before the dustbins had been emptied, and, with the exception of about three (which I did not look into, as their lids were closed), these bins were piled up with good cinders and small pieces of coal, which were being wasted by the very class upon whom the coal shortage later on will fall most severely, but who never think of being thrifty. If a sieve or riddle is hard to get, a sifter can be used, and, failing that, a home-made article could easily be devised and used when the fire is being raked out; it saves time, and the cinders can be put back with the fresh coal when the fire is again lighted.

Could the Corporation not issue notices to direct householders of every class to riddle their cinders; or, if that is not enough, have them done by the authorities and sold cheap to the poorer people? This sort of waste is widespread, and is only too common in the township of Blackrock, as I frequently notice.—Yours, etc.,

"HOUSEWIFE."

Blackrock, Co. Dublin, June 8th, 1918.

SUGAR FOR FRUIT-PRESERVING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Relying on the promise of the Food Controller that sugar for preserving fruit would be allotted to us, I made application, and duly received my permit, which I lodged with my grocer. As I found that my strawberry crop would be ripe very soon, I wrote to the Sugar Department asking when the issue of sugar would be made, and to-day received an answer to the effect that "the distribution of sugar would be made within the next few weeks." If this is so, our soft fruit will be over and done with before we get any issue of sugar, and a very valuable food asset wasted.

This, of course, is an unusually early season, owing to the fine and hot weather we have had, and in other gardens besides mine I am told the strawberries are coming in fast. Perhaps, I might add that I called personally at the Sugar Department in Kildare street yesterday, and was informed that the sugar was already in Dublin. It seems a pity that, in these days of general food scarcity, a valuable addition to the table should be wasted for want of a little forethought and energy.—Yours, etc.,

R. ST. L. MOORE, Lieutenant-Colonel.

Killashee, Naas, June 8th, 1918.

SELINA COUNTESS OF LONGFORD'S WILL.

Selina Countess of Longford, of 24 Bruton street, London, who died on January 22nd, aged 81 years, widow of the fourth Earl of Longford, and a daughter of the fourth Lord Dynevor, has left unsettled property of the value of £30,154 5s. 1d. The will of August 23rd, 1912, is proved by her nephew, Henry Joscelyn Wingfield, of Oddington Lodge, Moreton-in-the-Marsh, Gloucestershire. The testatrix gives £100 to her grandson, the Hon. Hugh William Gough; £25 each to her other grandchildren; £50 each to her butler, Samuel Head, and his wife, or £100 to the survivor of them; one year's wages to all servants who have been in her employ for ten years, one month's wages to her other servants. The residue of the property she leaves to her son, Captain the Hon. Edward Michael Pakenham, late Coldstream Guards. Lady Longford desired to be buried "quietly and plainly, giving as little trouble as possible."

ALLEGED PARTNERSHIP FRAUD.

At the Dublin Police Court on Saturday, before Mr. Swifte, Adolph Hubert was charged with having stolen a quantity of goods which were the property of a partnership of which he was a member. The other partners were Joseph Zemlsky and Barnet Plechzinsky, and they carried on the business of tailors at South Anne street, under the style and title of "The Irish Wholesale Manufacturing Costume Company, Limited." The magistrate observed that there was nothing much Irish about the names of the partners.

Mr. Joseph O'Connor (instructed by Mr. John Moran), who appeared for the prosecution, said that very early in the history of the firm it appeared evident that the accused was not going to play the game fair. Zemlsky, like a wise man, left them, and last month the prisoner left suddenly, but he left a letter behind him saying that he had sold some of the goods, and that he would bring in the money. Plechzinsky swore an information, and the prisoner was arrested in London. It was found that he had collected sums of money that were due to the firm, and that he had attempted to draw upon the account in the bank.

Plechzinsky, in his evidence, admitted that before he went into this speculation his occupation was in the [illegible] machine business.

The accused was remanded.

Mr. E. H. Burne appeared for the accused.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

The particularly strained conditions of the times and depleted state of markets throughout continue to regulate trading to a light and difficult groove. A further increase in rail and boat freights on goods and live stock between Ireland and cross-Channel centres has now to be reckoned with. The coal question, too, is becoming a serious problem with manufacturers, and more so with regard to those concerned with power and light distribution. Food stuffs are fortunately plentiful, but dear, and mostly governed by control terms. Butchers' meat, however, has become much cheaper, yet retail prices, on the basis of 20 per cent. profit to victuallers on their outlay, should still be pence per lb. lower than those current this week, especially for coarse cuts or joints. To export meat after 17th inst. it will be necessary to obtain special licence from the department officially concerned.

EXPORTS OF PORTER.

Messrs. A. Guinness, Son, and Co.'s shipments of porter from Dublin, as returned by the Customs daily shipping lists, for the past week, were:—

DUBLIN SCHOOLS' CADET CORPS.

INSPECTION BY LORD POWERSCOURT.

On Saturday afternoon the Dublin Schools' Cadet Corps was inspected on a part of the parade ground, Portobello Barracks, by its Commandant, Viscount Powerscourt. The prizes awarded to non-commissioned officers and cadets for efficiency in drill, shooting, and attendance were presented. About one hundred and twenty cadets paraded, in charge of Captain R. Y. Murray Wright, Commanding Officer; Captain Gillespie, Lieutenant J. G. Dixon, Lieutenant James S. M'Mahon, Adjutant, and Lieutenant R. Kennedy.

Viscount Powerscourt, who was accompanied by Captain Hayden, Royal Welsh Fusiliers (former Commandant of the Corps), Captain Gache, D.M.O., and Lieutenant Gick, after the inspection, addressed the Corps, and said how glad he was to be present, and to renew his old acquaintance of pre-war days with them. He hoped that after three and a half-year's absence (he having been discharged from the Army) his former relations of affection and friendship may be revived, and that they would all work satisfactorily together. He had from the beginning been greatly impressed by their good behaviour and by the attention which the Corps had paid to discipline. Captain Hayden was entitled to all the credit of having started the Corps. They would all be glad to hear that Captain Hayden's son, Major Hayden, an old School Cadet, had recently been awarded the Military Cross for distinguished service. Gratitude was due to the present Commanding Officer and his colleagues for the manner in which they had come forward and helped the Corps by presenting them with a set of band instruments. The pleasure he had in presenting the prizes was enhanced by the fact that the majority of them had been awarded for drill, which was a most important part of their training. Each and every boy had it in him to do "his bit," as the phrase had it; and he hoped each one of them would do his duty, and bring into the Corps all the boys that they could induce. He wanted the Corps to be a thousand strong, and then it would be a body worth belonging to.

The prizes having been given to the winners, cheers were given for Viscount Powerscourt, and the proceedings ended.

DR. HARTY AND MARTIAL LAW.

Preaching in Thurles Cathedral yesterday morning, the Most Rev. Dr. Harty, Roman Catholic Bishop of Cashel and Emly, referring to the Proclamation threatening martial law in the County Tipperary, expressed his approval of the decision of the young men of the town and parish to cease their drilling and military marching during the present crisis. Such a decision, he said, was wise and prudent, because if the drilling were continued martial law would be enforced, which would mean extraordinary inconvenience to all, and would be the ruin of Thurles. Another reason why they should try to avoid martial law was that if martial law were established it would be comparatively easy for the Government afterwards to put conscription into force; it would act as a preparation for conscription. He hoped, therefore, that the young men would continue to observe the prudent course they had taken while the danger lasted. Their determination to resist the inhuman and oppressive law of conscription by every means consonant with the law of God was well known, and their ceasing to drill was no sign of any weakness in that determination.

SPORTING NEWS.

LEOPARDSTOWN MEETING SATURDAY.

WETONAH WINS THE PRODUCE STAKES.

The concluding stage was carried out under similar ideal conditions to those which prevailed on Friday, and there was again a good attendance, while the sport fully maintained the fine standard set up the previous day, so that in every respect the meeting was thoroughly successful. Despite the fact of the ground being on the hard side, runners were numerous, and some close finishes added zest to the proceedings, but backers, for the most part, fared badly, the failures of Foolmartlaw and Honey of Roses being particularly bitter blows. Major Saxham, who had run Denizun to half a length at Limerick Junction, and Silver Ring commanded most support for the Maiden Hurdle, but both were always held safe by Light Division, who easily supplemented the successes of his stable companions, King Melton and Warwick. We were treated to a rattling finish for the Lawn T.Y.O. Plate, Brownstown, who left off favourite, squeezing home a head in front of Arthur O'Leary, who deprived Too Tired of second place by a still narrower margin, and Mr. Rogers had to bid up to 200 sovs. to retain possession of the winner.

The principal event of the day, the Leopardstown Produce Stakes, was generally regarded in the light of a good thing for Wetonah, who had hunted home Contey at Baldoyle, and odds of 5 to 2 were laid on Mr. Croker's filly, while of the remainder Little Cell, one of four saddled by Dawson, was the only one to be backed any way freely. He ran well, without ever looking like seriously troubling Wetonah, who dominated the situation throughout, and the daughter of Orby scored in decisive fashion. Honey of Roses, who was made the medium of a plunge in the Kingstown Plate, after flattering until half-way up the straight, compounded rapidly when tackled by Southern Joy and Galley Law, the former of which pair, well ridden by the diminutive apprentice, J. Burns, ran on very generously to land a 10 to 1 chance. Backers sustained another reverse when Foolmartlaw, who was installed a hot favourite, cut an inglorious figure in the Foxrock Plate, being in the rear almost from flagfall, and in an exciting set-to Loaf Sugar prevailed over Sea Trout and White Frost. For the wind-up a party of twelve turned out for the County Plate, and the "talent" were again astray in giving Banbury the preference over Bee Fast, who waited on the favourite until the turn for home, when he drew away full of running, and won in a common canter. Details:—

Portrait of Mrs. E. GOFF, of Beeches Cottage, Saltney Ferry, near Chester, who writes:—

"For five years I suffered greatly from an ulcerated leg, which at one time was covered with open wounds from knee to foot, there being as many as 21 wounds in it at once. I tried all sorts of preparations and attended the Infirmary, but nothing seemed to do me any good, and I was sent away from the Infirmary as incurable. One day my daughter saw Clarke's Blood Mixture advertised in a newspaper, and read it to me, and I decided to give it a trial. Finding the first lot was doing me good I persevered with it, and after taking four bottles my leg was completely healed. All this happened some eight years ago, and I have had no return of the trouble ever since."

Clarke's Blood Mixture, by reason of its remarkable blood-purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in all cases of Eczema, Scrofula, Scurvy, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Boils, Pimples, Sores and Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Gout, etc. Pleasant to take, and free from anything injurious.
